KOKOTONI WILF

Kokotoni Wilf is an arcade action hero whose undisputed mission is to track the title of 'Best Arcade Adventure Program Ever Made' from Jet Set Willy.

As Kokotoni tells you must recover all the pieces of the legendary Dragon Jewel which has been splintered throughout time for your master the great magician, Jorch.

Throughout the quest Wilf comes up against many dangers from huge lumbering predators, dragons, to hostile alien robots, but the reward for recovering all the pieces warrants the risk.

The 48K program features a number of major advances over Jet Set Willy. The games design, title screens, and each of the games 60 play screen backgrounds, are truly high resolution, as opposed to pseudo hires, and doesn't require a title to depict what you're looking at. Furthermore, the sprite characters are of cartoon quality and exhibit their own personalities, impressive claims. Jet Set Willy fans will, no doubt, feel both nostalgic and intrigued.

LYNX: USERS OF THE WORLD UNITE!

Dear Sir,

Would you kindly mention in your magazine, at the earliest opportunity, that I shall be forming a new user group/ magazine for all Lynx owners.

The group will be called the Lynx Users Group or LUG for short. It is the intention of this new group to promote and retain interest in the Lynx and to maintain the lively feeling that any Lynx owner is in the club. Among the proposed activities will be to encourage owners to speak to their local membership and to get owners to touch with those who perhaps have more programming skills.

LUG will be taking over from WLAG, as Mr B Poole has decided to close WLAG as from the June issue.

P R Jones,

CAN ANYONE BEAT THIS?

Dear Sir,

As regarding the top scores for Spectrum Arkanoid, I would like to tell you about my best of shooting on only the first screen of Arkanoid.

I'd got a little bored with the game, so I tried to get as many points on the first screen as I could. I managed a total score of 333 points. This was a difficult task because my aim just about missed up during the game. 333 points is a large score to beat. How about letting everyone hear about this challenge?

Alan Webster,
Gillingham, Sussex.

Editor's reply: Alan obviously thinks he's Back Rogers mark two. Anybody out there want to prove him wrong?

HAVING A SPOT OF CHESS TROUBLE

Dear Sir,

I think you made quite a blunder in your July issue. The chess program on page 132 was supposed to be for the TI-99/4A. Either my TI's got a different basic or you printed the wrong program.

Would you please give my new Texas Instruments User's Group, the Home Office Users Group, a brief mention. The group sends out a monthly newsletter giving tips, short programs, software and hardware info, letters and help with problems etc.

Hopefully, for more local members, there will be regular meetings. Anybody interested in joining please contact me at 78A Russell Drive, Bapchild, Northingham NG21 1EG.

May I congratulate you on a fine magazine and great support for the TI-99/4A. Please keep up this support.

Gordon Penhellen, Bapchild, Northingham.

ANTICS WITH ANT ATTACK!

Dear Sir,

In reply to Duncan Campbell's letter in June's issue of C&VG, I can claim to have scored 44,076 on Ant Attack and regularly reach level 10 without any problems. How can anyone beat that? This is about as fast as I could do such level 10. I realise the maximum score ever must only be around 48,000!

Not only, as Duncan points out, is there an exit at the top of the west wall in the game, but sometimes the girl is placed in a hole on the right hand wall and, after jumping on an ant to reach her, you can jump straight through and finish the level without returning to the city gates! This makes this level as easy as one of the first.

I also encountered a funny situation where the floor was covered with ants (nothing new there) as I jumped to polysize an ant and the girl must have jumped too. The end result was that we were both suspended, far on top of me, in mid-air! I wasn't standing on a block or an ant. If I spun round, the girl moved too, yet some of the ants could get us. Also, bombing them below brought us down. A quirk of the program or what?

Finally, in reply to David Kent's plea in the same issue on how to get past the Fast of the Magazine in Sir Sir Wily — it's easy! Stand under the first trench where the two turtles are and wait for the purple flame to approach you. Nothing can kill you here. As soon as the flame moves away, follow it and you can pass unhindered along — but you must jump as soon as you reach the steps in the middle, as the flame will turn round and hit you. Also the fast turtle will kill you if you jump up onto it.

What I want to know now is — how to get up to the Priest's Hole without falling down again onto the slope below? It took me long enough to work out how to get up to the other two screens below. I can also state that I've only four rooms left to visit now, as most of the house is accessible, give or take a few hundred Great Angles seen right through!

Christopher Carter,
Buckley,
West Yorkshire.

A FAIRER DEAL FOR ADVENTURERS

Dear Sir,

I have been buying C&VG for several months now and I intend to carry on reading your magazine rather than any other for one reason — Keith Campbell's Adventures section.

This is the best part of the whole mag. (the part I run to first) and I thoroughly enjoy it. There's just one problem — it's too short!

I was pleased to see the special Adventures reviews but the fact is, Keith Campbell needs more room. I understand lengthening the magazine costs money, but you could put the price up a few pence (not too much though).

The market is being flooded with many new Adventures, most of which are never mentioned in the few pages you give poor old Keith, so a little more room could mean a lot more reviews/articles about Adventures. You may be thinking that I am just an Adventures freak but you would be wrong. I enjoy playing arcade style games on my Spectrum but the magazine is packed with about-enough.

I say it's not fair on Adventures.
P Stoddard,
Bury St Edmunds, Suffolk.

Editor's reply: As you can imagine, Keith has a lot of work to get through. Even he can't write an Adventures in ten minutes, but we have found some helpings to lift the weight off his shoulders. So we may be seeing more Adventures in C&VG in the future. As for your suggestion about putting the price up, it's not a bad idea — not bad at all!

ROMIK

THE TEXAS CHAIN-STORE MASSACRE

Dear Sir,
With reference to Thomas Mulhausen letter in the July edition of C&EG, his suggestions are laudable, but unfortunately impractical and naive.

The Texas Extended Basic cartridge was originally sold in this country at a price of around $80.00. Yes, it was expensive, but it was available. Whether or not it was worth that much is difficult to say. Certainly, dealers were given little option in what they charged for the cartridge. Even at that price profits were small.

Since then, Extended Basic has been reduced in price several times until finally the TI-99/4A was discontinued. At that point, dealers who merely regarded the TI as a vehicle for making money simply decided to cut their losses and get rid of all the cartridges at whatever price they could get for them. This meant that EBasic was now available for around the $40.00 mark. But to pretend that this is what the module should have cost and to state that this is what it should cost now is naive.

As one of the two dealers left in this country able to supply Extended Basic from stock, I have no intention of going bankrupt simply to be a nice guy in supplying products at the prices they were being dumped at. Extended Basic may not be cheap from me (or my competitors and friends) but it is available. And as long as it remains available, it will be at its current price, or for no other reason than to allow me to provide back-up service there you tried getting after-sales service from any of the supermarket chains who sold the TI as though it were a can of beans! Or even asked them for advice!

As to his suggestion that an independent producer should make Extended Basic — why should they? The likes of Quicksilver, Palco, Ocean etc. never acknowledged the Texas when it was in production. It's hardly likely that they are going to now. But in any event, Texas Instruments still hold the rights to produce Extended Basic (and all the other cartridges for that matter), so any attempt to produce an independently made Extended Basic will be in breach of TI's copyright.

So to answer Mr. Mulhausen plea — the only sensible solution to the lack of Extended Basics has already been found, it they are being imported from the USA. Howard Greenberg, Arcade Hardware Manufacturer

GET STEEPED IN BLEEPs!

Dear Sir,
Seven Features (C&EG, July) can steep his Commodore 64 in bleeps just by calling this advertising to any program that needs them:
$60 BEEP SUB-ROUTINE STARTS HERE
$10
$30 S-BEEP POKE $100
$30 POKE $+1,15
$60 POKE $+5,POKE
$+5,BEEP POKE $+24,15
$60 POKE $+5,15
$60 FOR D=1 TO 100:PRINT
NEXT D
$60 POKE $+64,BEEP

The path of the bleep can be altered by using a higher or lower value than 75 in line 585. Its duration can be shortened or lengthened by similarly tinkering with the delay loop in line 580.

Bleeps are often useful for audibly registering a keyboard response prompted by an INPUT or GET command. It is an easy matter to limit their operation (and the progress of the program) by a qualifier, as this demo (when added to the lines above) will show:
100 PRINT CHR$(145)
TAB(25) TAB(245)
"PRESSING RETURN ONLY WILL SOUND BEEP" 110
120 GET K:IF K2= ---
THEN 125
130
140 IF K2=CHR$(15)
THEN GOTO 100:PRINT
CHR$(15) TAB(115) "YOU PRESSED RETURN"

150
160 GOTO 130
Pressing any key but RETURN will produce no response — but when it is used, the bleep will be heard, accompanied by on-screen confirmation of this action.

GO EASY ON THOSE GHOULS!

Dear Sir,
I would be grateful if I could see your letter page to comment on the review of Ghoul for the BBC movie in the July issue of your magazine.

C&EG's software reviews have, in the past, been objective and of a high standard. But in this specific case I feel sufficiently moved to put pen to paper.

For the reviewers to refer to Ghoul as simply "a blatant copy of Music Miner" and to write nothing at all about the game itself seems very wrong. Managing Director of Software Projects, Alan Mates, says: "Ghoul's King, Music Miner and Ghoul are all platform games primarily avoiding concerning obstacles — that is where the similarity ends. Having looked at Ghoul, I did not think it was a copy of Music Miner."

Ghoul has already received four and five star reviews in Acorn User, A&E Computing, The Micro User, Personal Computer Games and Home Computing Weekly. The game itself was the highest new entry in both Acorn User's July chart as well as C&EG's software chart No.3 and we have been told by dealers and distributors alike that Ghoul is second only to Killer Gorilla.

I quite appreciate the difficulty of policing your reviewers but, in cases where a new game from a reputable software house is slipped off to such an extent as this, I feel it is your duty to put a second opinion before printing the said review.

NOW THERE'S SCOPE FOR THE 64

Dear Sir,
Could you please tell me in our Scope for the Commodore 64. When will it become available, how much does it cost, and in what form does it come, in cartridge, disc or cassette? Best regards,

Editor's reply: Good news. Scope 64 is in the shops now on cassette for £17.95 or disc for £18.95. More details from SSP on 025675-6000.

THE OLYMPIC DECATHLON CHAMPION!

Just when the Editor thought he was going to get a free holiday in the USA, one of our readers had to go and win the CAVG/Activision Olympic Holiday prize. Ten days in sunny California with tickets to watch top events at the Los Angeles Olympic.

The lucky winner was Gavin Cox, from Old Dordania, Surrey. Gavin will be taking his brother, Nathan, away with him and can look forward to a fun packed ten days and nights.

They will be staying at the superb Sheraton Anaheim Hotel — just a short bus ride away from Disneyland!

Watch out for a report from Gavin on his trip to America and the Olympics in a future issue of Computer & Video Games!

Gavin won his prize by correctly identifying all ten events in the Activision Decathlon and telling us just why he thought Computer & Video Games is the best selling games magazine in this country.

Gavin's poetic answer went as follows: "Mega-cups, software smashing, last game knocking, has no task in, ever so dashing magazine." We all knew it was true, but it's nice when our readers say so too!

Congratulations Gavin — we're sure you'll enjoy your trip. But watch out for the Editor, you might find him trying to show away in your luggage! The correct answers to the decathlon were: 1) Javelin, 2) 100m Dash, 3) Discus, 4) Hurdles, 5) 400m Dash, 6) High Jump, 7) Shot Put, 8) Long Jump, 9) Pole Vault, 10) 150m Dash.

SPIRIT OF EVIL

Why not invite the spirit of the Evil Dead into your home? He's really quite a nice chap — and he'll bring a great new computer game with him. So don't be afraid to enter CAVG's Evil Dead competition — it will make your hair stand on end!

You've probably been reading all about the Evil Dead game, based on the now famous horror-spoof movie about a bunch of clean climb American boys and girls who go into the country to get away from it all and end up being transformed into hostile mutants. We've reviewed the game elsewhere in this issue.

Well, we've got our hands on some copies of this latest new game, for the Commodore 64, thanks to our friends at Palace Software, the people behind the game. The first 38 correct entries will get a copy of the Evil Dead game, an Evil Dead poster, a real bumper handle!

All you have to do is answer the four horrible questions below, fill in the coupon, and send it off to Evil Dead Contest, Computer & Video Games, Priory Court, 30-32, Tarringstone Lane, London EC1R 3AA. Please note our new address!

Now dim the lights, look out your special blood-red ink to fill in our coupon, and begin your quest for the spirit of the Evil Dead!

THE QUESTIONS

1. Which famous American actress played the part of Carrie — a teenager with awesome mental powers — in the film of the same name, based on the novel by one horror author Stephen King?
2. An extremely famous American singer starred in a hit video based on one of his hit songs. He starred as a werewolf. The video, one of the most expensive pop-promotions ever made, was directed by John Landis, the man who also masterminded the cult horror movie American Werewolf in London. What (a) was the name of the singing star and what (b) was the movie/video called?
3. Who, or what, was Christine, the star of another recent horror film, based on another novel by Stephen King?
4. What was the name of the first of a series of modern classic horror films based around the ghastly besties which take place every year on October 31st?

THE TOP TUNES!

At last we can announce the winners of our great Music Contest launched back in April. Vince Clarke, now Depeche Mode, Taroni and now masterminding The Assembly, has listened to your tapes and has decided who will get the Yamaha keyboards!

Many CAVG readers sat down at their computers to compose tunes for us — and it was a really tough task to decide on the winners. That's why it's taken so long. Thanks for bearing with us — and thanks go to everyone who entered. There are a lot of talented people out there! Now for the winners.

First prize of a Yamaha CX-1080 keyboard goes to Paul and Stuart Harrison of Cavers, Sheffield, second prize of a Yamaha Portatone PC-108 goes to Mr S. Wykes, of Rushden, Northants and third prize, a Yamaha Portatone MP-1, will go to Alan Simpson, of Abingdon, Oxfordshire.

Paul and Stuart's winning tune, called "Can You Remember", was written using CAVG's Spectrum music program. Mr Wykes has a BBC and used it to write his winning tune, "The Firm". Alan wrote his tune, "On to the Top", on a Visi-8. Congratulations all round and you will be receiving your prizes in due course.

Everyone who entered our contest will be receiving some sort of consolation prize — either a £100 It's Only Rock and Roll game, an amazing CAVG t-shirt or a mystery prize. Thanks again to all who entered. See you on Top of the Pop (see list)

DANGERMUSE IN DOUBLE TROUBLE!

Come back! The Mad Baron Krim Greenback is back in business and trying to control the world. Only a really super-agent can stop him. And that's Dangermouse! Elsewhere in this issue of Computer & Video Games, you'll find an exclusive preview of this brand new DM game. Once you've read it, you'll want to rush out and get your hands on a copy. But if you want one before anyone else — and even better for FREE — why not enter our equally exclusive Dangermouse in Double Trouble competition?

We've got copies of both the Spectrum and Commodore versions of the game, thanks to our friends at Creative Sparks, the people behind the game, plus lots of other Dangermouse goodies!

All you have to do is answer the simple secret agent quiz below, fill in the coupon and send it off to Computer & Video Games, Dangermouse Competition, Pinary Court, 20-22 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU. Please mark your envelope with the make of micro you own — Spectrum or Commodore 64.

Once you've answered the questions set by Colonel K, Dangermouse's boss, we'll also like you to think up an original name for a super-villain who might be found giving Dangermouse a hard time in one of his cartoon adventures. That's the mission Colonel K has set you — so now it's all up to you. Good luck!

COLONEL K'S QUESTIONS

1) James Bond is possibly just as famous as Dangermouse, although our mega-mouse friend might argue with that. What is Bond's famous code number?

2) The Man from ? was the name of a popular TV spy show. Could you have one of these in the family?

3) Clint Eastwood recently played a super-spy who had to steal a super-jet in a movie that has since been turned into an exciting laser-ride arcade game. What was the title of the movie?

Now fill in the coupon and rush it off to us here at C&VG. Don't delay — enter today!

Comments about this game from your local customers

"FOOTBALL MANAGER is the best game I have yet seen on the Spectrum and my personal favourite of all the games on any micro... To the ordinary person it is an excellent view of what can be done in the field of computer games... the winning glory of this game is the short set pieces of match highlights which show little stars men running about in search, shooting, celebrating and scoring... It is a compulsive game but people who cannot take game sessions of 10 hours or so, which happened to me one happy Sunday, will be grateful to know that there is a superbly fast option, ADDICTIVE FOOTBALL MANAGER has everything it could... The original Addictive Games, certainly deserve the name." Evening Herald (Irish) Computing - August 1983

THUNDERBIRD IS GO!

THUNDERBIRD

Fight simulation fanatics are going to have a lot more flying time under their belts with the launch of a new game based on a modern helicopter gunship. Thunderbird is the third of Digital Integration's flight simulation programs, and it follows in the wake of Digital's phenomenally successful Fighter Pilot and Night Gunner games.

Flying a helicopter is much more difficult than a conventional light aircraft and Thunderbird is a considerably more complex game to play. But the game does include a feature which allows you to take on as much or as little of the actual flying of the chopper as you like.

The program is not a version of Fort Apache but a realistic simulation of flying an actual helicopter. But shoot-'em-up fans won't be disappointed either as the game includes some spectacular ground attack sequences.

Digital's next promised release has its feet, or should I say its wheels, firmly on the ground. Motor Race is, as the name suggests, a motor bike racing game. The game pits you against 40 other racers around any of the top European race tracks including Silverstone and the Isle of Man TT race circuit.

Prices for the two games have yet to be announced but both games should be on sale in early August for the 48k Spectrum.

WILL DALEY WIN!

DALEY THOMPSON'S DECATHLON

Ocean Software has signed up top athlete Daley Thompson, to help promote their new decathlon game.

The British Amateur Athletics Board will receive royalties from the game, which will retail at £7.99 for the Commodore and £9.99 for the Spectrum version.

The game, launched to coincide with the start of the Los Angeles Olympics, simulates the ten decathlon events including the 100 metre sprint, long jump, pole vault, javelin throw, discus throw and shot put.

Each player has to qualify by taking an "energy test" — and the computer will decide if he or she is fit to compete. A speech synthesiser gives vocal scores and a voice intones "On your marks, get set, GO."

The roar of the crowd urges competitors forward and a multiple scrolling action creates a realistic 3D effect as the field opens up before them.

Daley Thompson, who admits to enjoying arcade games, tried out Ocean's new game before he left for Los Angeles. Sweet broke out across his brow as he recreated the 100 metre sprint. "I'll have to run faster than that," he cried.

Daley Thompson's Decathlon will be competing for honours against several other "Olympic" games — such as Activision's computer versions of their Decathlon game, Automata's Olympimania and Quicksilver's Games 84.

FRONT RUNNER FOR K-TEL

K-TEL

First launch, in September, will be a multi-screen arcade action adventure called Storm Warrior.

Computer & Video Games had a sneak preview of this yet unfinished game for the Commodore 64 — and we reckon it looks very promising.

You play the part of the Storm Warrior on a mysterious quest which takes him to an equally mysterious land where barbarians and other nasties lurk. The game involves several different levels.

Other games will be ready in time for a September release. Watch this space for up to date information!

K-Tel, the record people who started out in the games software business earlier this year with titles like N's Only Rock 'n' Roll and Johnny for the Spectrum and Commodore 64, are planning a change of image for the autumn.

New titles will come out under the new company name of Front Runner.

TALES OF TOLKIEN

Fellowers of the Lord of the Rings can look forward to playing the classic fantasy book by J.R.R. Tolkien as a computer Adventure game if an agreement can be struck between the publishers George Allen and Unwin and Melbourne House — creators of The Hobbit.

The Tolkien trilogy transported the reader to a magical world of elves, orcs, wizards and evil forces in conflict with the spirit of good. The game will resemble the book closely — even coming in three parts.

Melbourne House's top programmer Philip Mitchell of Hobbit, Mages and Sherlock Holmes fame — will program the game. "As soon as I get the go-ahead, I will start work," he told C&EG.

Melbourne House are keeping tight-lipped about Lord of the Rings until they have signed the deal with Allen and Unwin.

Publicity Manager, Paula Byrne would say only: "We have an option to the rights to Lord of the Rings which we are pursuing."

The game is not likely to find its way onto the shelves for some time to come — perhaps not even until 1988.

LORD OF THE RINGS

Sherlock Holmes and The Mollot both took over a year to program — so it seems unlikely that Lord of the Rings will take less.

While waiting for Lord of the Rings, Melbourne House are hoping to keep the Adventure market well serviced with their Sherlock Holmes game which is now finished and will be launched next month at the PCW show.

The screen shot above is from the beginning of the game. Philip Mitchell was going nothing away about Sherlock when we spoke to him: "It's a really challenging Adventure which nobody is going to beat in a hurry".

THE END OF THE ROAD

IMAGINE

Imagine Software, the Liverpool games giant and the largest company in the software industry, has gone bust.

The company had grown from only two members to a firm employing over 100 in less than a year. It was almost certainly this huge expansion which overstretched what was undoubtedly one of the most talented and exciting software houses in the country.

The future of their much publicised "mega-games", Bandersnatch and Psychopass, seems uncertain at the moment but a company closely linked with Imagine, Flinchspeed, is the most likely candidate to pick up the pieces.

Happily, all the current range of Imagine games is still available in the shops. Another software house, Boss Jolly, has taken over all of Imagine's remaining stock of games and is planning to launch titles like 80: Kill and Ah Diddums for the Commodore 64 which Imagine had planned to release over the next few months.

Boss Jolly is also planning to introduce "valuepacks", a compilation of four or five Imagine titles at reduced prices.

Information on new Imagine titles to be released from Boss Jolly can be obtained on 983-9710.

1 MATCH POINT

MACHINE: Spectrum
SUPPLIER: Pison
PRICE: £9.95
(Sinclair Spectrum joystick compatible)

By the time you read this, the Wimbledon fortnight will be over. But if the sight of those tennis champs has inspired you to take up this noble sport, why not have a few practice sessions using this latest release from Pison before you venture out onto the real court?

Match Point is destined to become a sports simulation, bound for the high reaches of the ZX PC Top 30. The graphics, although fairly simple, are excellent and the program extremely well designed.

There are several game options, including exhibition level and to Wimbledon quarter final status. At the start of each game, you can select which of the many options you want to play from the well presented and easy-to-understand menu screen.

The court is presented in 3D perspective style. The players are represented by fairly simple black graphic figures — but their movement is smooth and realistic. The movement, as each player serves, is a pleasing ring gem — smooth and accurate.

At the back of the court is a Wimbledon style scoreboard, complete with player names which you can input at the start of each game.

Scoring is exactly the same as the real game, complete with tiebreaks. Captions at the bottom of the screen provide further information on the game as you play. For example, the message "First Service" comes up if you fail a serve, or the message "Out" if you go too wild. And there's no arguing with this umpire!

You can play the computer or a human opponent over 3-5 sets, again just like the real game.

I played using the Spectrum keyboard — but a joystick would be a real asset. You just can't move your fingers fast enough when going for that crucial winning point!

Having said that, there is the facility to redefine the keys should you want to try out another configuration.

Overall, Match Point is an extremely well presented and executed piece of software which ensures Pison's reputation as a purveyor of good quality games.

One minor criticism — when playing for the first time, I thought there were two balls in play, until I realised that one ball was in fact a shadow on the floor of the court as the real ball bounced around between the players. A little confusing, but not enough to stop this becoming a top seller!

2 ZETA 7

MACHINE: COM 64 joystick only
SUPPLIER: Magui
PRICE: £7.95

Magui Software are claiming a "unique first" in the shape of their new release for the 64 called Zeta 7. The company say they have acquired the rights to the computer game before it makes its debut in 125 arcades. The man behind Zeta 7 is Mike Wacker who was also responsible for Fire Ant and Annihilator.

The version for the 64 will be available in August — the arcade version won't be around until the autumn. The game asks you to protect a Zeta class defence sphere, which looks suspiciously like the Death Star from the Star Wars epics. Armed only with a solar powered Positron Accelerator, an orbiting defence pod, you must fight off waves after waves of 'invincible' aliens.

You can rotate the pod using your joystick but, after you've managed to destroy a squadron of alien fighters, your automatic sensors take over and look on to the next wave of attackers.

The alien ships fire high energy plasma bolts at your pod. You can only take so much damage before you have to get out — so you have to keep an eye on the status reports at the bottom of the screen. These give you an idea of the status of the pod whether it's about to blow up or not — and the status of the Zeta base. As well as attacking your base, the fighters also attack the Zeta base. You could lose the game because you have failed to defend it properly!

Zeta 7 looks very pretty. The graphics are great and the sound effects are good too. However, when you come down to it, Zeta 7 is a pretty basic shoot-'em-up, which is a real shame as the programmer has put a lot of effort into presentation. There's an animated intro screen showing the alien ships taking off to attack the Zeta base, a demo mode and comprehensive instructions.

But all you have to do once you press the start button is blast away at the aliens and, after a while, I found that a bit dull — despite the fact that varying numbers of alien ships come at you as you go through the game.

The destruction sequence of the Zeta 7 base when you fail to defend it properly is really nice too. But great graphics don't make a playable game.

It's a game you can never win. Eventually those aliens will wipe you out come what may. So I'll like to see either a few bonus points for staying alive for a set period of time or perhaps another screen for these gamers who manage to fight off the alien armada.

Zeta 7 is well worth taking a look at if you have a 64 — but I don't reckon it has that all-important testing appeal.

3 FULL THROTTLE

MACHINE: Spectrum
SUPPLIER: Microage
PRICE: £8.95

If you've ever felt the urge of power and the wind in your face as a big roller coaster goes the one hundred mile an hour mark, then you could just feel disappointment when you compare the experience with riding a bike in a computer simulation.

In truth, the game has to be true of all simulations. Who, for example, would rather score the winner at Wimbledon in a computer game than to do it in real life? No contest.

But this does not mean that simulations are not fun and it also means that comparing sim-games to the real thing is no way of judging them.

This is true of Microage's latest game — Full Throttle. The graphics are not the most amazing thing since sliced bread and it's tedious to see you really feel like you're racing against Gary Williams at Silverstone. What you can quite honestly see about this game, though, is that it is fun.

This has been achieved by making the game a real race. The aim is simply to win. You are one rider in a field of 40. When the break runs off at the start, you may manage to accelerate into 5th or 12th position, but here then until you see the chequered flag, it's a case of dodging, accelerating, cutting in at the bends and staying in the lead if you want to work your way up the field.

Full Throttle becomes a nice touch from Phenix's Chequered Flag in that you are allowed to choose any one of ten tracks.

If you are getting a race game for your Spectrum, I would recommend this one. Although the graphics are inferior to Phenix's Chequered Flag and AtariSoft's Pole Position, it's a much better game to play.

4 STAR WARS

MACHINE: CBN 64 with joystick
SUPPLIER: Parker Brothers
PRICE: £30.95

Star Wars is an all-time arcade classic and I for one have been waiting for some enterprising company to come up with the computer version. Well, it's here in cartridge form from Parker Brothers.

Star Wars: The Arcade Game features three screens from the arcade version. You get the initial space battle with the Klingon's fearsome Tie Fighters, the race across the Death Star's surface, blasting the laser defence towers on the way, and finally the hectic dash along the Star's "trench" dodging between deadly bombs and suspended catwalks to reach the main reactor port. Here you get just once chance to drop your proton torpedoes to destroy the Death Star entirely.

I was surprised that the graphics on the 64 version weren't a little better. Parker Brothers have made a good attempt at reproducing the red and blue arcade vector graphics, but I just don't quite have the feel of the original.

The Tie Fighters in the first screen are quite nicely drawn and you don't seem to get much impression at distance as the fireballs come streaming through space at you. I found it hard to tell just how far away these missiles were at times, which made it difficult to judge when to blast the fireballs or concentrate on the fighters!

Things get better when you swoop down low over the Death Star, shooting up those laser towers. This section doesn't have the satisfying vector graphic explosions of the arcade machine when you hit the towers. And you still have the same trouble judging the distance of those fireballs, which come at you once again.

Your X-wing Fighter is protected by nine force shields — lose them and the game is over. I found it annoying to lose so many in the first screen because of those irritatingly difficult fireballs and only be left with a couple to deal with the rest of the conflict! But then that's my problem.

I also found it fairly difficult to position my laser sights exactly where I wanted them to be — especially in the fast and furious, spinning screen. Post laser fire comes from the side mounted cannons on your fighter and converges on the area where your sight is aimed by the way.

I must admit to being a little disappointed with this offering from Parker Brothers, especially after seeing their version of Centaur (reviewed last issue) which is a real winner. The star-ship comes with a comprehensive manual which details the different game options and points scoring.

Parker Brothers have made a brave attempt to bring all the excitement of the arcade games to the small screen — and I guess that if you can't have the real thing at home, then you should take a look at this version and make up your own mind. It's one of those games!

5 DUELIN' DRÖID

MACHINE: Atari 400/600 and 512
SUPPLIER: English Software
PRICE: £3.95

Your family has once again been caught by the dröids and it is up to you to rescue them.

Given the very narrow-droid name of Jellon, you are the duelling dröid and must find the members of your family who are suffering at the hands of the evil members on the planet Jellon.

There are 99 different levels and each is a separate screen.

Once the game has loaded, you start on the first screen. At the top, your score and the number of lives is displayed. A high score feature is also built in so that you can try to beat your record.

The line at the bottom of the screen tells you which wave you are on. There are various objects on the screen at one time, some of which move and some which don't.

The basic idea is to shoot the aliens and try to find the members of your family.

Getting started: This not only covers how easy it is to load the game, but also how good the instructions on the cassette tape are. A low mark means the game takes ages to load and the manufacturer hasn't bothered to tell you just what that fuzzy green thing in the corner of the screen is!

These are human-like figures which waddle innocently round the screen looking at you. They simply have to walk in to them to gain the extra points and their eternal pastures.

The dragons are not as friendly. Constant with one of them will result in the instant loss of one of your three lives. Just to make the game harder, not all the evil dragons are affected by your laser gun. If you drop them, they'll just get up and walk away.

There are also other objects round the screen which must be avoided.

The joystick will point the dragon in eight directions. I found it quite difficult to get it to walk straight at times, though.

Although the graphics aren't up to much, I really enjoyed this game. It's addictive and great fun to play with a friend. I could, even though I could only manage to reach level six.

Sound is reasonable and I especially liked the stamping of horses' hooves as the dragons run towards you.

Double! (Good) is for one player only and requires a joystick.

5 BURGER TIME

MACHINE: Dragon 32
SUPPLIER: Baby Computer Games
PRICE: £3.95

Dragon owners have been kept waiting long enough for a second version of Burger Time. It's a shame that Baby couldn't provide it.

This version of the classic arcade game is one of the poorest games that I have ever seen on the Dragon.

For a start, the actual game is in black and white. Although the opening title is printed in green, the loading screen and the actual game both have no colour.

In Burger Time, you play the part of a chef. Your job is to put together three hamburgers whose ingredients are around the screen. Each burger has two pieces of bun for the top and bottom, and meat and some lettuce. As you walk over a piece, it falls down into the bun below and the burger is gradually built up.

But life isn't easy for the chef. He is being chased by a tomato, an egg and a sausage.

Defence comes in the form of a pepper pot — a quick shake of pepper in front of a pursuing piece of sausage and it's well and truly paralysed. You get five shakes of pepper on each level and the pepper pot is filled each time you lose a life.

Another way of trapping the ingredients which are chasing you is to catch them under a slice of burger as you make it fall. Also, anything standing on top of the burger will fall to its doom. On the Baby version, though, this death by standing on top of a piece of burger does not work.

Speed and timing is the secret of this original Burger Time. This version has neither. The game plays so slowly that most of the fun just isn't there. All action stops while a piece of burger falls which makes the game too slow.

The sound effects are almost as dismal as the graphics in this game. A single tone of the death march plays when you lose a life, and this tune is repeated, painfully slowly, when you have to move lives left.

If you've been waiting for a Burger Time for your Dragon, I suggest that you carry on waiting.

If you've had desperate for this game, you'll be very disappointed if you actually spend the money.

CHARLIE

MACHINE: CBM 64
SUPPLIER: M C Lottman
PRICE: £5.95

This latest release from Lottman is set in a sealed warehouse. Caught in a time warp, you are trapped and there are no doors or windows.

The warehouse is full of blocks. Four of these are purple and, if you can shelve them so that they are in a line, they will magically form a door for your escape.

If you think that this sounds a little like Pango then you're right. The idea is the same and you can either move a block by pushing it, or destroy it by pressing the fire button on the joystick.

In addition to the purple blocks, there are four gold bricks. When you have managed to make the door, you get extra points for waiting behind and pushing the gold blocks through the door. If you're in a hurry to see what the next screen looks like, though, then you can leave them behind.

You can't have penguins in a deserted warehouse, so there are different monsters to avoid in this game. At the start, there's just a spinning character who looks very much like the bug from the Bug-Byte league. Trapped behind each of the four purple blocks, though, is a deadly robot. So each time you release a piece of the door, another enemy joins the chase.

Once you have completed the first screen, you can get to the next one through the door which you have created. The next screen finds Charlie at one side of a set of six alleyways. Each path has a moving, spinning monster and Charlie must cross. Properly, to the other side of the screen. Then, it's back to screen one again, but this time there are more spinning monsters.

And so the game continues, until you are finally up against ten spinners in addition to the robots. What happens after that is not known. Even the person who wrote the game can't get that far!

If you're after an easy game, then this is not for you. It's very tricky and will certainly take some time to complete. But if you like a challenge, this is well worth the money. Spinners are used well and sound effects are good.

HI BOUNCER

MACHINE: BBC B
SUPPLIER: Microsoft
PRICE: £9.95 (also £12.95 boxed)

What a lot of Master blab there are, as Arthur Lowe used to say.

And many of them turn up in this latest game from Microsoft.

Hi Bouncer features Mr Bounce and it is your job to steer him round the town to help his friends. There are four screens and each has eight levels of difficulty.

In the first screen, it's Mr Tatt who's in trouble. He's dropped his scarf on the pavement and can't reach to pick it up. But there's no need to fear as Mr Bouncer is here. All he has to do is to bounce onto the scarf and it will reattach itself to Mr Tatt.

This task is quite easy on the first level, but as later levels there's fruit falling from the trees and other monsters which must be avoided.

Screen two is all about Mr Lazy. He's supposed to be building his house but, well, you know, it's such a nice day and the sun's out so why not leave it just a few more minutes. Mr Lazy has left part of the house on a nearby tree-top — which really is a stroke of luck. If Mr Bouncer can jump into the other end of the sea-view, the window frame will fly, as if by magic, into the corner place.

The other two screens feature Mr. Bump and Mr. Snow. Once again, Mr. Bounce has to come to their rescue. It's a hard life being a superhero nowadays, you know.

The graphics in this game are great. Any child who enjoys the TV program or the books will certainly love this game. But I don't think that it will hold much appeal for anyone over the age of 11.

FACTORY BREAKOUT

MACHINE: Spectrum
SUPPLIER: HyperSoft
PRICE: £5.50

Factory Breakout takes a pinch of Pac-Man, a twist of Asterix and mixes it all up in a final screen of one of the fastest climbing games I have played in the last week — and I've played a lot.

Although borrowing bits and pieces from other games, the overall design is original and reasonably entertaining.

You are Zinky, the last remaining robot in a factory gone crazy. Can you help him escape?

It won't be easy, though, as the whole place is patrolled by three homicidal Pac-monsters. Unlike the ghosts in the Pac-you-know, these nasties disappear seconds after you have killed them.

Before duelling with the ghosts — which is the most enjoyable part of this game — you have to get through ten preliminary screens which eventually become just a nuisance on your way to the main part of the game.

The first prelude screen challenges an embryonic Zinky to survive an attack on all sides by killer rays. He has to spin round in his shell blasting the deadly fingers before they make contact with the shell and crack it.

When Zinky hatches out into a fully grown doll, he has to dash through a corridor of laser-spilling nasties to get into the key room.

This is the fun part of Factory Breakout. It's quite tricky as your movements are limited — just left and right and up the moving lifts on the left and right of the frame. You can only go down by falling through the trap doors.

The key to escape from the factory will eventually appear on this screen — but first you have to run over all the traps, doors, making them turn red, then blue before they eventually disappear.

Sounds easy, but it's not. Mind you, I did get quite close after about ten hours play which makes me slightly concerned about the lasting appeal of this game. Once you've got out of this factory, what does Zinky do next?

GILLIGAN'S GOLD

MACHINE: C64
SUPPLIER: Ocean Software
PRICE: £5.95

Also available for £6.95

Spectrum at £5.95

It's treasure! But you're after it in this game from Ocean.

The action takes place in a long-deserted gold mine and your job is to find bags of gold. The bad news is that there's a band of outlaws who also want that gold.

This game is another of those Minic Miner clones. What you have to do is to collect the bags of gold which are dotted around the screen and during them in the wheelbarrow at the top.

Help comes in the form of bogeys which are small trucks that travel on the mine's railway. If you grab one of the overhead tangles, then you can shove yourself into one of the passing trucks.

You are immune to death when you're in a truck. If you are walking normally, then any contact with one of the outlaws will kill you instantly.

The game is played against the clock and you have to collect all the bags before time runs out. As you collect each bag, you are given more time. A bonus score takes away at the top of the screen and you get the bonus amount of points for collecting a bag and putting it in the wheelbarrow. The longer you take, the less points you get.

I found the game quite awkward to control. The joystick response is fast enough, but, unless the bag is exactly on top of the wheelbarrow, then it won't register.

Sound effects are good. There's music while you play and a great tune before the game starts. Graphics are above average. The outlaws are realistic and the opening the screen with the Ocean logo is an example of how to get the most from sprite graphics.

Gilligan's Gold is more like Minic Miner than Minic Miner. If you're trying to decide between Minic Miner and Gilligan, you'd be better off with Gilligan. It's more fun and I enjoyed it.

T SUPERBOWL

MACHINE: Dragon
SUPPLIER: Cable Software
PRICE: £5.95

American Football has taken this country by storm since Channel 4 began screening those bone-rattling confrontations the Americans call sport on Sunday evenings.

New Dragon owners can try their skill at this game for tough guys, thanks to Cable Software.

Superbowl is their version of the grid iron game. It's certainly an original idea and the animation of the players is pretty good, considering the limitations of the Dragon.

You play the part of Floyd, top wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys. Your team is playing just-wait, Washington Redskins, in a crucial NFL match. Floyd's job is to score a winning touchdown — but the Redskins are out to stop him.

The game starts after kick off. Floyd has to leap up and catch the ball and then begin his long run up the field to the end-zone. The Redskins in defence team come thundering down the field at the line (Dallas player — attempting to squash him into the asphalt!).

The game is similar to many driving games in that you simply have to avoid colliding objects before you reach your goal — but Superbowl does have a novel theme and is very playable if you are a US football fan.

All in all it's a nice game — but I'm not sure whether its basic simplicity will make its original appeal last with the Dragon gamer.

B HERCULES

MACHINE: C64

SUPPLIER: Interdoc
PRICE: £5.95

Hercules, the first release from a new software house called Interdoc, could be described as Minic Miner meets ancient Greek mythology.

It's definitely in the tradition of the Minic — 50 screens tied with climbing, hopping and jumping. But there's a bit more to Hercules than the run-of-the-mill Minic clone. Many of that labor — now for the history of labor.

The game is based on the Greek myth, the Twelve Labours of Hercules.

Hercules was the son of the chief Greek god, Zeus. One day, in a fit of madness — perhaps after eating a really tasty kabab — he killed his wife and their young children.

Afterwards, old Hera felt really upset by this lapse of normal behaviour and decided that he must do something to make up for all that killing. So she set good world to feature the Random Access Principle. What this means is that screens will appear at random as you go through the game and no one session with the game will be the same.

The 80 screens are divided up among the 12 labours but not evenly. If you complete one screen of a particular labour, you move onto the Greek myths, he trotted off to the Oracle of Delphi — a sort of early advice bureau — to find out how he could atone for his sins.

Hercules was ordered to serve King Eurystheus for 12 years — performing all the tasks the king commanded — which later became known as The Twelve Labours of Hercules. And that's where the game kicks off.

You play the part of Hercules and have to complete all those 12 labours. Each labour takes the form of a screen featuring a different challenge: jumping and hopping challenges. Each screen has a read text intro which describes the story behind the screen in great detail. Although it's nice to read a little story before getting into the game, I really would have liked a bit more basic information on how to play each screen.

The screens come in different colour schemes — but basically feature platforms, rigid to swing on and an objective to reach — and there are invisible platforms which only appear if you do the right thing! This makes the game slightly like a graphic Adventure and also brings in a spot of strategy to add in extra challenge.

Intended claims, bravely that the game is the first in the next — finish an entire labour successfully and the RAR selects another labour for you to tackle.

If Hercules stays in one place for too long, he is engulfed in flames — so you have to start to move quickly! All of which adds up to a nice new twist on the climbing game theme. The only criticism I have is the lack of comprehensive game playing instructions and the lack of a pointer mode I found useful being lives too quickly when I began playing the game.

MR DIG

MACHINE: C64
FORMAT: disk or keyboard
SUPPLIER: Microdeal
PRICE: £8.00

Remember the arcade game Mr Dig? Microdeal do — and they have just released a version of this extremely popular arcade game for the 64. And despite our reservations about this sort of idea — copying — Mr Dig is a very playable game.

The object of the game is to guide Mr Dig around a maze-style screen picking cherries and avoiding the various monsters who come out to get you. Simple — but fun!

Plus, all the cherries on the screen and you qualify for a crack at the next — more difficult — screen. The game is well presented with nice graphics. The screen also includes an ongoing score read-out plus a Hi-score. Also at the top of the screen is a panel which grants bonus chase Mr Dig. Their touch is deadly but they cannot tunnel after our hero — so you can lead them into dead ends or trap them using one of the apples which also appear on the screen.

The Monsters can mutate into Miners, however, and their creations are not as threat to Mr Dig as they can tunnel after him and eat apples.

In the centre of each screen is a "tree" which, when captured by Mr Dig, "breeds" the existing Monsters on screen and releases Letter Monsters. And this is where the panel at the top of the screen comes in.

If you manage to destroy the Letter Monster, the letter is carried but is displayed at the top of the screen. Make up the word "MORRIS" as you go through the game and you'll earn an extra life. The Letter Monster is protected by more monsters called Mollies — if these are destroyed individually, they mutate into apples.

scores if you do everything properly. But more of the later.

The monsters start from the centre of each screen. Mr Dig begins the game at bottom centre of the screen. A nice touch are the life boxes at the right hand side of the screen which focus your viewing Mr Dig. When you lose a life, the deceased Mr Dig returns to his box with his legs in the air and plays dead until you bring him back for another game!

There are several monsters attempting to prevent Mr Dig getting those cherries. The most dangerous are simply called Monsters — little characters who can only chase Mr Dig is armed with a sword bit which can be used to destroy the apples chasing you. Fix it and it bounces around the screen until it hits something.

All in all, a really nice game from Microdeal, very playable and extremely addictive.

Mr Dig comes with one more all play, ranging from "Easy" to "Maniacal", nice graphics and good sound. We said it — even though it's yet another clone from the arcade.

12 DANGERMOUSE

MACHINE: Spectrum/
CBM 64
SUPPLIER: Creative Sparks
PRICE: Spectrum £8.95
CBM 64 £7.95
Platform version was:
Stratix, AGP/Petrol,
Kempson or Fuller (syndical)

First, let's set the scene. London has been enjoying a brief respite from the evil intentions of the power mad Baron (aka Greenback) — arch-enemy of Dangermouse.

Our hero is relaxing in his Mayfair penthouse flat — situated in a prime spot in Baker Street. He is sitting quietly reading Chatterbox Weekly and beginning to think that Greenback has given up his quest for total world domination when, suddenly, the telephone forks into life. It's Colonel K, head of security and Dangermouse's boss!

"There has just come in from Peruvian Intelligence that the mad Baron and his gang of international villains have spent the last fortnight in the depths of the jungle, building a 500 MM, 6000S, 100M electronically available mega micro-mouse hardware unit," greeted Colonel K.

"But what's that?" says Dangermouse, looking baffled. Colonel K answers his top agent's question. "The letters stand for Real Artificial Mouse. Our ingenious Operating Systems, Really 'Gristle' Mouse. In other words, it's an android Dangermouse!"

"What?" says Dangermouse, leaping up from his easy chair.

"It can impersonate you and infiltrate our intelligence service to help Greenback's quest for ultimate power," Colonel K explains. "Unless you can reach Greenback's secret workshop in time and stop this evil creation being activated!"

"Right! I'll leave right away sir," Dangermouse says. "Snaily 'Perfoid! Can the android made immediately before going to Peru!"

which super-robot strikes fear into the hearts of even the most hardened villain? which megamouse would be able to defeat even the most advanced mouse-trap? And which secret agent is standing in a brand new computer game? Dangermouse, that's what! This merry fellow was an instant hit with TV audiences everywhere when his cartoon adventures came to the small screen. Now you can help Dangermouse save the world once again by getting hold of a copy of his first computer adventure called Dangermouse in Double Trouble — or why not try to win one in our Dangermouse competition which you'll find on page 137? Meanwhile, here's CSM's EXCLUSIVE review of this brand new game....

Trusty assistant, dashes off to start up the wondercar — and that's where YOU come in!

You must help Dangermouse fly the airship to the Peruvian jungle, avoiding Greenback's squadrons of flying robots which attempt to hold our hero back. There's a limited amount of time before the android mouse is activated — so you must work fast.

Once you've reached the jungle, Dangermouse has to negotiate crocodile swamps and a hungry puma which blocks his path.

Then Dangermouse can make his way to Greenback's secret workshop where he must stop Greenback activating the android mouse. If he runs out of time, the android will be released and Greenback will control the world! Play!

The first screen features some nice graphics. Dangermouse and Perfoid are flying toward Peru in the airship. Toward them come the most diverse variety of Greenback robots. Dangermouse has to light them off by firing musical notes from the airship's special juke-box.

The juke-box has to be told which type of robot it's firing at. Can the note wrong and a robot will hold you up. At first, this is done automatically but, at certain stages of the game, you must operate the robot repellent device manually to score hits.

In the final and most graphically impressive part of the game, we find Dangermouse in Greenback's workshop.

The android mouse is about to be activated. Greenback's assistant, Snaily, is programming the android using the On/Off Electrical Key (OO EOK!) and there are only a few minutes left before the task is complete.

DM and Perfoid arrive at the base to find the program control box completely surrounded by an electrified floor. DM must stop the programming by extinguishing a row of yellow lights in the control box. To do this, he must use his highly developed index finger to manipulate buttons in the box — while hopping about over the electrified floor! Meanwhile, Perfoid is being chased around by Hord, Greenback's cat-like hound!

Dangermouse in Double Trouble is a fun game to play. The theme is original and well executed and it will be quite some time before you're able to beat Dangerback, playing at the Top Agent level.

The graphics on the final screen are stunning on the Spectrum version and even better on the Commodore 64. Here at CSM, we're sure you'll enjoy playing this game and will keep coming back for more — just like Greenback!

Creative Sparks says that this could be the first in a series of Dangermouse games. We're looking forward to the next one!

10 PITFALL OUTBERT

MACHINE: IBM 64

SUPPLIER: Activision

(Pitfall Microdisk)

PRICE: Retail £9.95/

Cotton in the Jungle £8.95

Cotton goes to Court could well be the first chapter in the adventures of Microdisk's computer game character, a humber of legal action can be believed.

The fuss concerns the third game in the Outbert series called Cotton in the Jungle, which is identical to Activision's Pitfall game.

With both versions currently on sale for the Commodore 64, we thought it was about time someone told you which was to buy.

First on screen was the original Pitfall from Activision. This game is the first computer game from the Activision manufacturer who began by making cartridges for dedicated video games machines.

It was a shame that the game did not use any of the new high speed load techniques developed for the 64 — taking a good five or six minutes to load.

I first played Pitfall on the Atari VCS and enjoyed it immensely so I was looking forward to a deluxe version on the 64 with greatly improved graphics and sound. This wasn't the case. Activision appear to have tried to convert the game exactly — without adding any frills — not using the 64's extra capacity.

But there is one useful improvement over the original game. When you lose all your lives you don't have to go back to the very beginning of the game.

For the uninitiated, Pitfall's a simple to understand, yet addictive Adventure game. You play Pitfall Harry, a jungle explorer who is racing against the clock to dash through the jungle collecting treasures. Crocodiles like rolling barrels, crocodiles, flash floods and scorpions have to be jumped over. But if it's easy to understand the objective, the game certainly isn't easy to beat! Pitfall is fun and challenging.

Cotton in the Jungle is not a patch on Pitfall, though. It's just not as smooth as the original. When you attempt to use the ladders to the underground passages, you tend to get stuck on the ladder on the way back up.

The graphics are not as pretty either — the crocodiles and scorpions are much too small. One other annoying trait is that every time you want to start a new game, you have to listen to a silly jingle.

Cotton's advice — if you want to have fun in the jungle, get Activision's Pitfall and beware of imitations!

11 EVIL DEAD

MACHINE: IBM 64/Apple IIc

only

SUPPLIER: Palace Software

PRICE: £7.95

"Welcome to the tragic tale of the Evil Dead!" So says the blurb on the intro screen of this brand new game from a brand new company, Palace Software. It's also the first game from programmers, Richard Lemstra.

Most of you will have heard about the low-budget horror movie which spawned this game. The Evil Dead has since gathered a cult following — and, if you like the film, you'll probably enjoy taking a look at the computer version.

The story behind the game — and the film — is pretty simple. A bunch of teenage American teenagers decide to get away from it all for a few days in the Tennessee woodlands. They end up in a spirit-haunted cabin being transformed into horrible green mutants! What a way to spend a weekend!

Your task in the game is to help the main character, a young chap called Ashley, kill off the green mutants and destroy the curse of the Evil Dead.

You also have to stop the spirit of the Evil Dead breaking into your window street and transforming your four buddies, Cheryl, Linda, Scott and Shelly, into Ashley-eating zombies by shutting doors and windows as you patrol the house.

Ashley can pick up weapons which appear at random around the house. These will help him fight off the monster mutants. But keep an eye on your energy levels — as one mutant too many and you lose a life.

You can boost your energy levels by finding the sword which appears from time to time and killing as many mutants as you can before it disappears.

Score enough points and the Book of the Evil Dead appears. Collect it and drop it into the fire in the main room and the game is ended — until you start all over again next time!

A fair amount of strategy is involved in this game. You have to know which windows to close, which doors to open or leave shut, and which weapons to pick up. The screen scrolls from room to room quite smoothly and the sound effects for Ashley's various footsteps are good. I liked the sounds for the slamming doors and windows too.

Overall a very playable game — and well worth trying to win in Evil Dead's great Evil Dead competition on page 12.

GOLF

MACHINE: TS-894a +

Extended Basic

SUPPLIER: Peco Records

PRICE: £7.95

Tennis lovers can now practise their golfing skills without even setting foot on a green.

You pick a target whether you wish to play either nine or a full 18 holes. The rules are similar to the real thing, but it's not half as much fun on a computer.

The program loads as normal and the title screen then appears. This is quite impressive and blasts the author's name at you in fast-moving graphics. It's a shame, though, that he didn't take as much care over the game itself.

The graphics are awful. This computer is capable of much better things, but Peco has not taken advantage of its facilities.

Once loaded, you are asked to enter the two players' names. Then the game begins. The entire playing area for the current hole is displayed on the screen. The tee is on the left and the hole is on the right.

The ball in play is supposed to be a different colour to the others, but I found these very hard to distinguish as they were all small.

The water and bunkers are plain square blobs of blue or yellow, although reasonable graphics are used for the trees.

The holes vary in difficulty. Some took me ten shots while others took just two. I never managed a hole in one, though.

I was disappointed with this game. This is not what I would buy an Extended Basic cartridge for.

Not recommended and certainly not worth £7.95.

CLIMB EVERY PLATFORM!

Casual owners are very fortunate when climbing games are concerned in that the king of them all comes free when you buy your machine — the one and only Donkey Kong.

It could be argued that there is no need for anyone to launch another climbing game because of Donkey Kong.

That's not an opinion I agree with as climbing games are great fun and it's nice to have a little variety — even if it is within one fairly limited game category.

Comparisons with Kong are difficult to avoid and, fortunately for Nintendo, their Minor 2049'er holds up very well.

You play the part of Brority Bork who has followed Fukun Yahan into an abandoned uranium mine. Before you can capture Yahan, you have to climb your way through 11 levels of action.

Screen one is pretty simple — you merely run along the platforms, jumping over a few hazards and collecting the various items left behind by previous protagonists.

By the time you get to the last screen, you will have survived a radioactive pool, the dangerous lift and even been fired through the air from a cannon.

If this doesn't sound difficult enough for you, then don't despair as there is an added problem. As you climb, you are racing against the clock. If you aren't swift on every section of each platform — changing their colour as you walk on them

The Verdict

An extremely addictive climbing game. It's like you a while to crack this one and you certainly won't want to stop playing until you have succeeded.

— that you will die.

OK, so you want a comparison with Donkey Kong and I'm not going to dodge one — for my money this is a better game than Kong. The graphics are not as pretty and it doesn't have any cute jingles, but the game itself is much more challenging. You really have to think about the best way to tackle some of these screens and, with 11 as opposed to Kong's three screens, it all adds up to a better game.

Minor 2049'er is available now at £29.95.

TIME PILOT GROUNDED

Time Pilot is one of those games that was a minor hit in the arcades and which a couple of years later is beginning to appear as a home version for various home systems.

Amigo recently launched one for the 84 and now has come Commodore with a version for their home system.

I really can't think why they bothered. The arcade game itself was no great shakes and neither is this cartridge.

The game is basically a dog fight style shoot out in which you control a futuristic jet fighter under attack.

The various levels of this game unfold like a video game history of aviation.

The game begins with your craft under attack from a squadron of biplanes, circa 1910.

If you down all of these and then lose the air ship, which makes a very easy target as it floats across screen, you will go on to level two.

We have now moved on 30 years and our enemies fly planes of World War II sophistication — with heavier fire power. From 1940, we progress to choppers in the 70s equipped with heat seeking missiles and then on to super-slug jets representing 1980.

Despite these theoretical differences between levels, there is not really that much difference in difficulty.

Even the difficulty options

MINOR 2049

TIME PILOT

MINOR 2049

don't really add much extra challenge either — merely adding more enemy players to be defeated before allowing you onto the next level.

The graphics in this game are not the best I've seen on the Commodore — much to be shared because with a game of this type that could be at least one positive thing that you could say about it. Time Pilot is available now at £29.95.

THE VERDICT

As a video game, Time Pilot would make a very good door stop.

MR DO — THE ONE FOR YOU

Mr Do is one of Coleco's recent arcade-to-home conversions which still is a big hit in the arcades.

The Universal coin-up introduced the cute little dwarf — Mr Do — whose role in life is to gather all the cherries and avoid the nasties. The nasties take the form of Badguys, Alpha Monsters, Goppers and Blue Chumpers.

Move around the screen by making passageways as you walk. Dig Dig-fishers.

The nasties can be defeated by pushing the switch on top of them to some extra points. You only win after defeating nasties in a sudden blast which you can throw at them — launching it off the walls and ceilings of the passageways.

To open an extra life, Mr Do has to kill all the nasties that appear from time to time on the Alpha Monsters. When these nasties all been killed and placed in the pot, they spell the word — EXTRA.

As with all Coleco games, this cartridge features four different skill levels as well as one and two player systems for added interest.

Mr Do is a fun game to play with date, arcade-authentic graphics.

If you enjoyed playing the game in the arcades, you will enjoy this home version as well. The game is in the shops now at £29.95.

The Verdict

Accurate conversion of the popular arcade game.

SUBROC SUB STANDARD

Subroc lagged into its way into the arcades two years ago when Sega launched the coin-up version.

By 1982 standards, the graphics were pretty impressive but, since then, Subroc has fallen in popularity and you don't see it in many arcades these days.

That's a shame because, for people who like a good shoot-'em-up, they don't come much better.

The action takes place at sea. You are at the wheel of the Subroc vessel which is being tormented by various nasties. You have to shoot your way through progressively difficult waves of action before taking on the deadly centipedes on the third screen.

The nasties you will encounter include Battleships, which make very easy targets, Interceptors, Cruisers, Mines, Fighters, Flying Saucers and Bombs.

Your view of the action is from the bridge of your vessel and your gunights appear in the centre of the screen.

To blast the enemy, you simply move up, down, left, and right, picking them off as you move. Considerable skill is required as your torpedoes land authentically when it hits.

One of the few graphical weaknesses in this game is when right fails and steam finally breaks again.

I don't know what it is about the Coleco, but some of the recent arcade-to-home conversions have been disappointing — Subroc included. The graphics are crude and jerky and there's not much of a lasting challenge in this game. I got to the third and final screen on only the fifth turn.

It's not the Coleco that's to blame for the mediocrity of these games — it's an excellent games playing machine, as evidenced by Donkey Kong and Zaxxon.

The problem is the software. It seems to be a case of too much money and effort being spent in getting the licence to the game but not enough being spent in developing the game itself.

The Verdict

Steer clear of Subroc — you could do a lot better for £30.

PITFALL II CASH PRIZES!

Activision has programmed a special message into ten of the new Pitfall II cartridges which have just gone on sale.

The special cartridges contain a secret telephone number which the lucky winners can dial to claim their prize.

If you are the lucky owner of one of these cartridges, your name will go into a hat with the other nine winners and a draw will be held at the Personal Computer World Show in September.

The first name out of the hat will receive a cheque for £1,000 with nine £100 cheques for each of the runners-up.

The ten prize-winning cartridges have been distributed at random to Activision's retailers all over the country.

Amake Pace of CBTY and ITV's Treasure Hunt was invited by Activision to place the winning cartridges at random in sealed Pitfall II boxes.

If you've got a Pitfall II, plug it in quick and see if you've won a prize. If not, just enjoy the game — it's great. Our Joystick Jury awarded it straight five's in their exclusive review two months ago.

CUTHBERT IN COURT

Activision recently sued Microdeal for an infringement of their copyright Pitfall.

Microdeal's Cuthbert in the Jungle game was alleged to be a copy of Pitfall — the jungle adventure game starring Pitfall Harry.

Activision's managing director, Geoff Heath said, "We view the infringement of copyright very seriously and will not hesitate to take action again should the occasion arise".

This decision is not likely to affect companies like Atari who are currently lobbying Parliament to force a change in the Copyright laws.

JUMBLED JOYSTICKS!

Calling all Jumbled Joystick winners! Call the winners of our remote control joystick competition announced in the December 1983 edition of C&H, please get in touch with us so that we can make arrangements to send you your prizes. The winners are: Simon Cowley of Kynslam, Peter Evans of Walsall, Philip Hicks from Hampton, Philip Hicks from Bromscombe in Herts, Malachi Doolin of Carrington, County Tyrone and Scott Corbett of Aberdeen.

Amazing how played out some things gs become.

Will you think the same of your micro in 6 months' time?

Remember the days when every record player was gifted with a needle instead of a stylus, 45's were "in," 78's were "out."

Before the days of hi-fi and laser discs. When a graphic equaliser was a breakthrough on the football pitch instead of in music technology.

Look at a record player now and it's a museum piece.

It's like that with micros too. The machine you thought would give endless hours of fun and interest often becomes a five minute wonder. Played out within months. Or so you thought.

But imagine communicating with other micro users on a nationwide mainframe system. Updating yourself daily with the very latest computer news and reviews. Paging a special Bulletin Board. Feasting from "Prestel's" vast menu. Even downloading a choice of software absolutely free.

In fact, imagine 30,000 pages at your fingertips and you've imagined what it's like to be on line with the Micronet 800 system.

For just £13 a quarter (and, for most of you, a local telephone call whenever you want to connect up) you could subscribe to the Micronet system.

The only extra you need to connect up is a modem unit. Which is a small enough outlay for what it buys.

Micronet's features are almost limitless and constantly updating so why not see it in action at John Lewis stores, selected W.H. Smith shops and Spectrum UK dealers.

Or fill in the coupon for our brochure.

You'll find you won't want to play on anything else.

Please send me the full facts about Micronet 800.

ARCADE

On one of the few days recently when the sun blazed down, the CAMO Arcade Spy decided to hit a seaside resort on the south coast.

Brighton — the seaside resort with miles of pebbles, brown beaches, countless shops selling different flavoured rock and a magnificent shopping centre was the destination in the Spy's quest for the best arcade around!

Brighton was certainly a surprise after the hustle and bustle of the West End, its arcades only ever burst into life in the summer months and it is every arcade owner's hope that the money spent in them by punter will see him through the long, lean winter months until the following summer.

As I dove into my pocket to have a quick tap at Dflewel, I realised that I was in a gamer's paradise — the price of games at a whole is approximately 50% cheaper in Brighton than in the West End. Whereas a game will cost 50p in London, it'll cost 30p in Brighton. 30p games are down to 20p and 20p games are down to 10p and, as far as I could see, you still get the same number of lives.

Arcades in Brighton are a different story altogether from their cousins in London. They tend to be roomier, lighter and airier, the sounds of games aren't as loud and a more relaxed atmosphere is prevalent. One of the first things that struck me is the extreme cleanliness of the arcades — you could actually catch a whiff of polish lurking in the air! In fact, it was quite a common sight to see cleaners wandering around with a duster and a bottle of Windex rubbing away sticky fingerprints!

If you walk down from the station towards the sea, you'll come into West Street which has the surrounding number of four arcades all within three hundred yards — three of which are owned by Jimmy Neal Enterprises!

The first arcade in West Street is Regency Leisure — a prime position as it is the first arcade you come across on the way down from the station. Regency Leisure was one of the few arcades at the time of writing which had Atari's T&E — the three-screen Grand Prix game — and Nintendo's V.S. Tennis — a two player tennis game with dual screen action where you can't see what your opponent's plan of action is until he's played his shot. Other games that were new on the scene were Gopher — a hybrid of Galaga and Galaxian — Stern's Flagman, Exotic Soccer — a brilliant football game — Spy Hunter, Star Wars and Pole Position. Lining the walls were some real gems, some dating back to the old Atari-Pac-Man, Exotix, Paperboy, Jaws, Mad Racer, Centipede and Frogger.

Further down the street

Brighton is a holiday resort, there is no ban on children under the age of 18 playing games unaccompanied by an adult as there is in London. So long as there are no rowdy groups disturbing the peace, all ages are welcome in the arcades.

There are managers in every arcade to keep an eye on the place and one or other of the Neal brothers in their cousins are always around to make sure that everything is running smoothly. Their main headquarters are at this arcade. This was one of the few arcades to contain Flash Duff — the new boxing game which was very popular amongst the Middles.

Family Fun I

Family Fun II

you'll hit Family Fun I. This was the first of the Neal's arcades and has been around for about seven years. Its dealer is aimed at the family — a place where the whole family can go to play games together. It has lots of space and is very light with well-lit games growing in well baskets. It's on two levels with a wide shop front to attract custom. Because Next in West Street's line of arcades is the Crystal Room — an amazing place offused with a blue light. The arcade is incredibly large — about 40 metres long — with tables suspended from the ceiling adorned with great plants. The effect is great. The arcade is a nice mix between Galaxia with its disco-like atmosphere and Family Fun with its family atmosphere. It's modern and spacious — about 45 video machines in all — and has a good selection of fruit and pinball machines.

The fifth arcade and the one nearest to the sea is Amusements, part of the Wilson Group. This has a relatively small footprint and could be quite easy to miss. It's long, narrow and, though large by London's standards, quite small by Brighton's standards. Devoted mainly to fruit machines, the arcade has approximately 16 video games such as Sega's Turbo, Mr. Do's Wild Ride, Star Wars, Grand Champion, Spy Hunter, Iron and Golf. The Wilson Group does even another arcade in the area off the beach — and the games are mostly shoot-'em-ups.

It appears that shoot-'em-ups and fast moving games are more popular on the beach than, say, something so often found in arcade arcades.

The next two arcades you come across as you walk towards Palace Pier are on the promenade itself underneath the jetty. Russell's Leisure Centre is a large arcade with three areas — each area taking up the space of one arch and resembling huge concrete caves. The floors are tiled and the place looks quite sparse. Games include Track included Revolution, Popeye, Phoenix, Circle Charlie, Ali, Da's Mole Race, TK-1, Sea Hunter, Galaxy Ranger, Crystal Castle, Crossbow and Slack of Iron.

The last three arcades to be visited were all beyond the pier on Madeira Drive. These three arcades belong to the Hoal family and again cater almost solely for the beach trade. Aquarius Amusements is situated above the Dolphinarium while Cloves and Family Wonderland are situated further up Madeira Drive. They are all reasonably similar to Family Fun 8 in layout, games and design but differ slightly in size and the number of video games in each. All three have their fair share of fruit machines as well as the Perry Warfall type games, but in each one you can guarantee to find at least three of the latest video games.

In conclusion, the Arcade Bay would definitely give Brighton the "bumbo up" on the arcade front. The arcades are all so clean and well looked after. There is a great variety of videos, pinballs and fruit machines and anyone can play the games regardless of age — this only makes sense in a holiday resort where the arcade owners hope to attract as much custom as possible. Their only stipulation is that people are well behaved and not too noisy!

And finally, I believe that Brighton's arcades kill the old image of arcades as being sleazy dives and places of iniquity.

Family Wonderland

Galaxy

8 Field, Sea 'n' Rope, Star Wars, Fantasmor, Galaxy Ranger, Scramble, Zero, Comet, Guerrilla and Turbo.

Further on down the prom and still under the arches is Festival Amusements which has, apart from video games, fruit machines and Perry Warfall's, a toddler's playground area which caters for really young children. In front of the arcade is a Tea and Fish and Chip shop. Behind this and under the arches you'll find the games. It's a huge place, using perhaps four to five arches, and there are about 35 games in all with one real gem. That was writing proudly in a huge space by itself with no-one playing it — a fact which surprised me.

A couple of hundred yards up the road in Palace Pier which gradually houses two amusement arcades owned by the Hoal Group. Fully equipped with high roofs, these two arcades contain well over 150 games ranging from the Fun Man era through to this year's releases. Newer games which is devoted entirely to fruit machines.

Family Fun 8 is the first arcade on the seafront that was visited. Similar to all the other arcades that lined the beach, it is quite sparse and devoid of the flashing lights, cigarettes and flowers that characterised the arcades in West Street. The floors are concrete — sample when people are coming in straight like Dragon's Lair. Having said that, Family Fun 8 has a Dragon's Lair, M.A.C.H. 3 and Galaxy Ranger which are amongst the newer games around. Older games include Sea Hoof 8, Mr. Do, June Post, Clay King, Galaxian, Multi-Force and Space Phantoms. It also boasts several Perry Warfall's — those frustrating machines

ARCADE ACTION

THE ARCADE CHAMPIONSHIPS 1984!

This issue we take a break from our normal what's new format to bring pinball fans a special CBWG competition. We've got five C&G, hand-held pinball games up for grabs if you can answer the simple pinball questions below.

The game is a twin screen extravaganza complete with all the features you'd expect to find on the real thing.

We know that pinball players generally don't like video versions of their favourite pastime — but we reckon the C&G game will keep eyes the most discerning pinballer pleased for hours!

So if you are a dedicated pinball player — or someone who would like to win an easy introduction to the pleasures of the game — then fast forward your coupon to Computer & Video Games, Pinball Competition, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AA. Normal CBWG competition rules apply and the editor's decision is final. Now — on with the quiz!

1. Which world famous and extremely loud rock band created a rock opera all about Pinball?

2. What was the name of the deaf, dumb and blind hero of the very same rock opera?

3. What do you call the device on a pin-table used to push the silver ball back up the table? Think dolphins!

Over the last few months, entry forms for the CBWG 1984 Arcade Championships have been taking over the office: the response has been phenomenal!

After spending hours sifting through the entries, we've finally come up with the names of the finalists and the games that will be featured in the grand play-off.

The venue will be at Ramen — a popular nightclub in Piccadilly, the heart of the West End. Computer & Video Games will be paying all the finalist's travelling expenses and will also provide and dine them throughout the day.

The finalists will compete in a Grand Marathon for a prize of a latest-top arcade game — a valuable piece of furniture which would really give a sitting room or bedroom as well as taking you the envy of your friends!

Pin-Blas Flogger and Defender's Blower are obviously still around, judging from the trophies we've received on these two games, but by far the most popular were games which have been released in the last 12 months.

The four most popular games, and the ones picked to feature in the championships, are Star Wars, Track & Field, Gyruss and Dragon's Lair.

Four players on each game will compete for the highest scores with the four finalists from each game taking part in a play-off on a brand new mystery game which hasn't yet been released.

The highest scorer will be proclaimed the 1984 Champion and his prize will be awarded and presented by a celebrity.

Julian Aignall — the 1983 Champ

The four finalists on Star Wars are William Blackshaw from Glasgow; James Roy Barker, Norfolk; Michael Chen, Leeds and Stephen Marrow from Teesside.

Finalists on Track & Field are Paul Stokes from Yorkshire; Mark Payne, Cleveland; Paul John, Swansea and Julian Aignall the Defending Champion from Wales. Last year Julian won a table-top version of Juggles in a heated play-off — could he be on his way to scoring a hat-trick?

Defender's Blower finalists are David Bushby, Sussex; Robert Toome, Dorset; James Thomas, Leicester and Gary Davidson, Hertfordshire.

Dragon's Lair finalists are Steve Gennart, Oxford; Richard Elliott, Sussex; Steven Burrows, Worcester and Michael Chilton, Leeds.

There will also be two individual reserves to fill in should one of the finalists fall ill. They are John Koush and Devinda Mankawa — both from London.

Next month there'll be a full report on the Championships, detailing the hi-scores and the 1984 Champion's name.

GO ON — BE A GOOD SPORT!

FIELD CARNIVAL

While wandering around an arcade the other day, I went past a couple of lads beating frenetically away at one of the games. Ah, I thought, Track & Field — it really demands its fair share of sweat and tears!

Seconds later I realised that it wasn't Track & Field that was under attack but rather a game that is so similar in graphics and method of play that it would be easy to mistake the two at a glance.

Field Carnival by Taito is another multi-event sports simulation featuring an all-gilt Cast, unlike Track & Field which is based entirely on Olympic sports, you are more likely to see the events in Field Carnival at a school sports day or village carnival. There are seven events in all, including a tug-of-war, three-legged race and an obstacle race.

It is quite obvious from the graphics in Track & Field that the same team of programmers have worked on both games.

Fun to play and great with two or more players, I don't understand the significance of producing the first all-female game unless it was directly in answer to Track & Field which started an all-male cast!

OUR HALL OF FAME GAMES

Oh all you gamers — now get that if you've been coasting off the joyride during the summer months, taking time out watching the Olympic Games, now's the time to get your computer skills into shape.

There's a very good reason why it's time to sharpen up your mastery of the joystick and fire button — because we have prizes. And when we say prizes, we mean PRIZES! I'm not just talking about 'The Champ' tee-shirt and your name in stone. I'm talking 8000 bikes, new computers and free software.

This month we launch our fabulous £500,000 prize challenge with no less than five of the super wheeled machines to be won between now and next January. So if you think you can catch up a mean score on this and some other games in our Hall of Fame, watch this space every month to see what super prizes your gaming skill can win. YDS.

DIAMONDS

Michael O'Mahony won a £500 diamond for his 1,597 high score on Diamonds. English Software's ultra big game — Jet Set Jack for the Atari computer and its — will now replace Diamonds in Hall of Fame.

JET PAC

Fly Jet Man around the moon collecting the three sections of his space ship, avoid the missiles, assemble the rocket and blast off to the next planet. Pure addiction for the Spectrum, BBC and Vic 20.

DONKEY KONG

The king of climbing games. The ape, the carpenter, and the blocks are now available on Atari, Vic 20, 64, and T8000 from AtariSoft.

MANIC MINER

The new 16-screen climbing game that introduced Miner Willy. Spectrum and 64.

JET SET WILLY

What Miner Willy did next. This time there are 80 screens.

THE PYRAMID

The Pyramid has Fantasy's unique high score verification system built into the game.

ZALAGA

Splendid arcade clone for the BBC, based on Galaga.

SABRE WULF

Similar to Jet Set Jack but twice as tough and twice as tricky.

PSYTRON

Beyond's first big hit for the Spectrum. The Paytron is a computerised defense system for the planet Sabre S.

We will be your guide to the new Pyramid, Jet Set Willy and Sabre Wulf.

WALL OF FAME

A special customised version of this beautiful Raleigh Burner is up for grabs to the winner of the Starbike/Hall of Fame challenge.

5 BMX BIKES TO BE WON!

Star Bike is the simplest wheel-ten-up this side of the known galaxy.

The Star Bike has been called in to tidy up a nasty incident in one of the far flung corners of the galaxy.

It seems that a bunch of space partners are abducting the inhabitants on some of the planets in your zone. It's your job to hop on the super fast Star Bike and get them safely back to your ship...

Each planet is divided up into five sections with a teleporter and a scanner in each one. When you have rescued the alien in the teleporter from where he is transported to the ship.

By getting back to the teleporter you can now travel back to your mother ship and on to the next planet that is under attack.

On each new planet you will encounter a fresh type of enemy, of which there are no less than 48 different types in Star Bike.

Star Bike is a beautifully presented game with options for speech, graphics, one of two players and a Hall of Fame in which you can enter your name beside your high score.

But the real fun of the Star Bike Hall of Fame is to be found in C&M's high score chart over the coming months.

Softex are offering five BMX bikes as prizes between now and January. The very top prize is a customised Raleigh Burner which will be awarded to the person who can notch up the very highest score on Star Bike between now and the publication of our February edition next year.

And it's no good spending in bogus scores either, as Softex have a foolproof method of verifying all high scores.

But if you are about as handy with a joystick as a lumberjack with a better axe, then don't despair. There is more than one way to win.

By multiplying the numbers printed below with the numbers printed in your cassette entry, or on the special 1600 Star Bike entry form obtainable free from Softex, you could win a bike without so much as blowing an alien.

HOW TO ENTER

If you want to sign up for the Star Bike prize force, then don't miss your chance to receive a free copy in this simple to enter competition.

All you have to do is answer the questions below, fill in the form and send it to Computer & Video Games Star Bike, Priory Court, 30/32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU.

The first one hundred correct entries will receive a free copy of the game.

- 1) The UK's premier big bike circuit is at (a) Isle of Man, (b) Isle of Wight, (c) Donington.
- 2) IT stands for (a) Trade Trophy, (b) Youngster Trophy, (c) Trash Trials.
- 3) The bike favoured by most British police forces is manufactured by (a) Kawasaki, (b) Suzuki, (c) BMW.

RUNS ON COMMODORE 64

Push is a version of the famous board game of the same name for two players.

The aim of Push is to form a square of nine balls of your own colour and, when the first push is made, a ball of your own colour must be the last one to be pushed from the grid.

To start, the first player must push a ball into the grid from one of the positions numbered 0-8. In doing this, he scores points for all the balls in that row. The colour of the ball that was last pushed from the board determines whose move it is.

To enter a move, simply type in a number between 0-8 which corresponds to the point in the grid where you wish to move the counters.

Full instructions are contained in the listing.

That crazy monkey, Killer Kong, is up to his old tricks of stealing Mario the Italian carpenter's girlfriend and imprisoning her at the top of the Empire State Building.

In this version of the game, you step into the shoes of the gallant Mario, battling against the evil gorilla in a brave attempt to reach the top of the building and free your sweetheart from the beast's clutches.

Every step that you take is filled with danger. Barrels of flaming oil rain down from the top of the building and roll along the platforms towards you. You only have a short time to reach the girl before you collapse from exhaustion, but you can keep your strength up with regular intakes of apples along the way.

The program is in two parts. The first contains all the graphics data and the second the main program. Each should be typed in separately and saved on to tape or disc and then loaded into the computer. Full instructions are included in the listings.

Everyone is talking about Ultimate's latest hit, Sabre Wolf — already riding high in the C&VG/Daily Mirror Top 25. But not everyone has a map of the Wolf's jungle. Until now that is! Our one games surveyor, Jonathan de Barra — the man behind our Jet Set Willy map a couple of years ago — has come up with an in-depth look at the game's many locations. And Professor Video has also been delving into the jungle to bring you a few hints and tips on playing this great new game!

Sabre Wolf is similar in concept to Ultimate's other top game Alio Alio, but its playing area is much bigger — 256 screens in all. It's a very complex layout, as our map overleaf shows quite clearly!

The aim of the game is to discover four lost bits of an amulet and get past the nasty Sabre Wolf. Sounds easy — but believe me it's not!

Obviously, as the game is so new, we can't claim to have found all the tricks necessary to beat the Wolf. But we reckon our Prof., helped by Jonathan and several other C&VG readers, has managed to find some hints and tips which should see you well on your way. We'd like to thank Kevin Williams of Watford, Adam Lucy-Hibbert of Frimley, Banermer, James Miles of Coventry and Julian O'Hare of Slough, Berkshire, for on with the game!

Only one route out of many available leads to the same entrance — the black cave above the starting room. Always keep your sword ready when entering a new screen. You never know what might be lurking there! But remember not to charge into things, hoppers or Indians — you can only turn these enemy with your weapon but not kill them.

You may charge into the other beasts, such as tarantulas, scorpions and snakes, with your sword at the ready as you can kill them!

Occasionally another key to your survival in the jungle. If you come across one of these plants growing in the jungle, wait for it to bloom.

Another useful survival trick is to find one of the little red statues which inhabit the jungle. Collect one of these and you earn a bonus life. You'll need all you can get!

The amulet which you small for poor Sabre Man to get through — so he'll have to find an orbital which will give him the power of invulnerability in order to get around the animal.

Never stay on a screen too long — if you do hang around, a bush fire breaks out! If you can survive for about a minute without getting burnt, the bush fire will go out and Sabre Man earns bonus points. Remember, bush fires cannot be put out.

The Sabre Wolf is a large beast, totally indestructible and beautifully animated. Just watch his pounce! The wolf roams the bottom of the map and guards his lair. Keep clear of him, he is deadly and doesn't like humans.

Use the pause button extensively throughout the game and plan your moves for each screen in advance.

You might have trouble getting by the first thing you encounter. This beast — and others you come across — can be dealt with like this.

Enemies can be attacked from behind — but watch out they don't turn around! To get by the first thing, follow him to the left with your "left", "down" and "sway" keys pressed. When he turns around, move towards him — with these keys still pressed — and you should find yourself before him.

Now, armed with all this invaluable information, a trip into the Sabre Wolf jungle should be just that little bit easier. Happy hunting!

KEY
	Red symbols show you don't feel safe! Only temporary invulnerability.
	Yellow symbols are poisonous and will cause temporary paralysis.
	Purple symbols occur at the 100% level — but don't panic! Suspended instantly from the machine.
	Blue is the best colour. It enables you to pass through several screens in great speed.
	Yellow stars — a long-term reward for the best position.
	Don't dash near the point.
	Collecting statues earns bonus lives.
	Green is the best colour. It enables you to pass through several screens in great speed.

C & VG SOFTWARE FORM

Have you written a games program which you feel is just right for C&VG? If so we have come up with a form to ensure that we can test it out and give you our views on it, as quickly as possible.

We would prefer a tape and listing but can work from just a tape and will return it to you if it doesn't find its way into the magazine. We will also need an additional sheet explaining the game and its theme. And any documentation like lists of variables or how certain routines are working, would be of great help to beginners. Please make sure that your name, address and the program name is on everything you send us, including the cassette itself.

This form will merely help us to keep a check on your game as it goes through our testing process and make sure we have all the information we need to present it properly in the magazine.

If you don't want to cut up the magazine, we will accept photocopies or clean copies of this page. This form will be appearing regularly in C&VG issues from now on.

Remember we pay £10 for each listing published and you could win our Programmer of the Year Contest where we will try to turn the winner into a best-selling games author.

It is not often that the hardened members of the Computer & Video Games' review team get enthusiastic. I mean, when you've zapped as many aliens as they have, no computer game seems that big a deal.

Well, David Brimley's game, The Enchanted Castle, certainly shocked our review team into a fervour of enthusiasm.

The one problem with the game is that the listing is very long — It takes up the entire memory of a BBC model B. We decided that we couldn't fill the whole magazine with one listing, but we also decided we couldn't deny our BBC readers the chance to play one of the best games we've ever come across. So we've compromised. This month we've printed the first half of the listing and the final part will be published in the October issue of C&VG.

Basically, the game is a graphical Adventure game set in a seemingly deserted castle, but we guarantee that the graphics will knock your eyes out.

To find any of the words the game understands, simply type in the keyword VOCAB.

MAKE YOUR CONTRIBUTION TO SPECIAL EDUCATION MORE EFFECTIVE

Robyn Frankham copes very well with her learning problems, thanks to developments with computers in special education. Like many other children, she now has the ability to communicate with the aid of microelectronic devices which help her to write essays, draw pictures and most important of all, to gain her independence.

Learning To Cope '84 — Computers in Special Education, is the second of this annual publication which presents the story of Robyn and how many other physically and mentally handicapped children and adults are coping with their futures. Tremendous progress is being made through the manufacture of specialised devices and through the dedication of teachers and parents.

Learning To Cope '84 looks at specialised computer hardware and software and brings you the latest developments in applications covering all aspects of special education. Read for yourself how committed people have developed and redesigned new and existing equipment to help those in special education help themselves.

We can all help if we care enough.

GAMES

DISCOVERY HUNTER is the world's greatest sleuth — the most advanced and challenging adventure game ever.

For the first time ever, an adventure game in which you can engage with intelligent characters.

Study the clues, question the suspects, make the deductions — and match your wits against the most deviously criminal in history.

MURDER gives a totally new direction for thrill seekers — comic, animation in text, stunning graphics and a full arcade game! Muggle is your one and only chance to become the greatest gang leader with definite ill-effects.

The best graphics.
A real cartoon world.
Muggle is also definitely different. The graphics are tender.
Cartoon comedy.

CLASSIC ADVENTURE This is the program that started it all. Now you can discover the excitement of 'Classic Adventure' on your Spectrum 48K. If you are masterful enough, you too could become a Noble Adventurer.
The classic businessman's work clothes.

It's excellent but be warned, it's also very addictive.
Now commercially available.

THE ROBERT VINT J.R.R. Tolkien's Noble Lords is the most amazing adventure yet devised. A game by which future games 'will be judged'.

Now commercially available.
'Superior to any other adventure game' — USA Review
'Pure Excellence' — USA Review
More of an Experience than a program. USA Review says.

ACORNSOFT

BY JULIAN CROUCH

The galaxy has been plagued recently by a gang of blood-thirsty space pirates. Hundreds of space ships have been hijacked, their contents looted and the crew and passengers butchered to death.

As one of the top young pilots in the Federation Space Academy, you have been chosen to take charge of the Zodiac, the Federation's fastest ship and the only craft capable of catching the pirates' space bikes.

With only one operational laser cannon, you must hold tight until reinforcements come to your rescue — if they can find this remote corner of the galaxy. But in Kalon was the most peaceful planet in the Third Sector. Its inhabitants had denounced violence after the Crystal Dawn of Earg. From that time until now, not a fiat or a voice had been raised in anger in any Kalon city. Until they came — yesterday, at dawn, splitting the achievements of generations in three short hours.

The Kalons had no choice. It was fight or die — and fight they would even though their whole civilization would never be the same after the battle — whatever the outcome. The best the Kalons could hope for was to defeat the Fire Demons and hope that they would live to serve the higher principles of peace and justice in the future.

Whether Kalon will remain the bastion of peace in the Third Sector, no one can say. But already in the Pleasure Dome and Relaxation Centers the people were talking about the Star Warrior as the next Kalon general.

"Will you take the job? Will you become Star Warrior, commander of the last remaining Kalon laser base and only defence against the Fire Demons? If the answer is yes, then get this lining into your Astar as quickly as possible and start blasting those Fire Demons."

MEMOTECH MTX500

The Ultimate.

The MTX500, one of the most powerful computers available, is now even more available!

Its new price tag of only £199.99 must make it the ultimate computer best buy around – whether you want to play some of the fastest and graphically exciting games available, or develop your programming skills using its easily controlled hi-res sprite graphics and built-in assembler/disassembler and debugging facilities.

The MTX500 comes with 256 KRAM, expandable to 512K. Add to this another 128K VideoRAM dedicated solely to handling the screen memory, and you've got 48K. But how much user RAM is left when you're running high resolution graphics programs? Unlike other machines, the answer is still 32K. Because the MTX500 uses the 128K VideoRAM plus a second processor – the Texas Instruments TMS320C24 – to take care of screen graphics.

Included in the MTX500 package are five free games cassettes, worth over £30.00 if bought separately. Telephone us today for the names of your nearest dealer, who will be happy to demonstrate the power and playability of all the Memotech offerings.

MEMOTECH MTX500: MAJOR FEATURES

STANDARD I/O PORTS

- Versatile note cassette port (up to 2400 baud)
- Two joystick ports using Atari configuration
- Centronics-type parallel printer port
- ROM cartridge port
- Uncommitted parallel input/output port
- Internal ROM board port
- Hi-Fi output port
- 4-channel sound through TV speaker
- RGB composite video-colour Monitor port

THE 8255 COMMUNICATIONS BOARD

(prepared for disc expansion)

- Two independent 6502 ports
- 80-way Data Drive Bus supporting up to four 5.25 and/or 8-inch floppy disc drives, plus motor access (Memotech Silicon Discs, and Hard Discs with capacities up to 32 Megabytes)

USER RAM

- Optionally expandable to 512K in increments of 64, 128 or 256K

INK OF ROM – which includes:

- 4Kx 64K/2
- Modulo, i.e. simple, text-handling language
- A powerful Assembler/Disassembler – sections of machine code can be created and run by calling the Assembler from within BASIC
- The sophisticated Front Panel, which displays the contents of all registers (including the F flag register) and pointers during program execution
- All four languages can be used interactively with each other, and with the user

ROM EXPANSIONS – up to 72K

- 48K MacroBASIC, in 25K word/processing package
- Hard BASIC, written specially for the MTX Series

THE KEYBOARD

- Fullsize, 79-key, full-stroke professional quality keyboard incorporating:
- Arsen Black with typewriter style layout
- A separate 12-key numeric/pointer keypad
- Eight programmable function keys (16 with shift)

HI-RES GRAPHICS MODE

- 256 x 192 pixel resolution plus
- 32 x 24 text in 1st foreground and background colours
- All 16 colours (i.e. 16 colours plus transparency) are available on the screen together
- 32 user-definable easily controllable sprites
- 128 separate GEMMETT statements providing a huge range of user-defined characters

TEXT MODE

- Text resolution is 60 x 24 characters plus
- 128 user-defined characters
- Eight user-definable virtual screens or "windows" (available in all modes)

FLINT'S GOLD

There I was, snugly thinking I'd wrapped up this month's Adventure pages, when I looked with horror at my disc directory and feared I was three granules short. Having spent the day chafeking through the games I'd reviewed by playing them again, tidying cups up, adding links, answering helping letters and filing things, I thought OH NO! Not another, at this late hour!

A BBC game, I thought — stories leading time than the Commodore and easier on the fingers than the Spectrum. I perused the software shelf and saw nothing special. I pulled out Mancos Abbey from A&P and, alas as here, wished I hadn't.

There was something very nasty in that abbey and it kept taking me back to BASIC READY with a click and a beep halfway through the load. I repeatedly changed volume and tone and then tried the reverse side — no duplicate. Asking for recovery was I ever able to load it, wasn't it? So I looked closely at the conditions on that Pacey is one thing — back-up erasing and loading is another.

A&P undertake to replace copies that do not load, but I needed to meet a deadline and could not wait that long. Pacey, eh? So I picked up Flint's Gold — it had a copy on both sides.

A&P's love was Micrograf's gain, for here, under an innocuous label, was a gem. Here, in glorious technicolor and four track sound, was a light, bubbly Adventure. I could see the green palm trees and the gallies in the bay under a blue sky. I could hear the rush of foam on a tropical beach and the screech of seagulls' evening overhead. The sailor's homophony got a lot of me and I drifted... a welcome change from heavy pushing and spurious bashing.

All this was not in the mind — there it was coming from the speaker and screen after each. Eventually, I came face to face with a black and white text Adventure with pictorial inclusions, but the sound effects continued, bringing the colour back to mind.

The language was heavily overdone. "Aye Aye, Maney," and "OK, Jim Lad" are among the phrases, but even when Long John Silver smashed me with his crutch and I wailed "You are dead, matey?" I didn't mind. I cussed, but I had a smile on my face. I had been thoroughly enjoying myself getting drunk on grog, listening to whispered messages from a woman lurking in a dark alley and trying to milk a goat!

Despite what I said about a relief from pushing, this Adventure is not without problems — but it is wonderfully entertaining with it.

Flint's Gold is from Micrograf for the BBC, priced 99.99, or 18.99 on disc.

MUNDO MANOR

In Mystery of Munco Manor, I heard a most unusual Adventure. Music accompanies the title page and continues whilst the background story is unfolded. This tale of Lord Munco, the famous Adventure writer who, on returning from Egypt, has strangely become a recluse in his West Country manor. The story is authenticated by graphics displayed front page from The Times and Guardian of 1931. Perhaps this gives away the age of the author for, when I started reading it, it was known as the Manchester Guardian.

Just as well, then, that I was assigned the role of a Times reporter following up the story.

I was transported to the dawn of Munco Manor after dark. The eerie music continued as, across one of the windows, the figure of a man could be seen moving. The door opened the entry — pacey being a hot subject. The game is odd subject to A&P's unmentioned conditions. Think I'm clairvoyant, do they? I'd be a rug to waste money writing to them just to find out what they didn't want me to do, wouldn't I?

However, the entry did say they didn't want me to copy — just as well I couldn't load it, I suppose. And what's this bit about not testing? Personally, I think that's downright cheeky. If I want to lead my own property to a friend I will — and nobody will stop and a shaft of light swept out. I went in and the door closed behind me, creating flashbacks.

Unfortunately, the tension that had built up collapsed as this point, for there was a lightning wait while the main program loaded.

I found myself in a dimly lit hallway, music just visible disappearing up to the left and a door on the right. There was a mirror on the wall opposite. I looked at it and read a message written in blood. Dramatic music accompanied the image of the writing on the mirror.

As you may have gathered, Munco Manor is a graphics and text Adventure, with a picture at every location. These are drawn with such rapidity that the response compares well with many a non-graphical Adventure. The pictures are detailed and colourful, too.

What lets the game down is the text. A short list of common words and abbreviations is provided in the intro, and discovery of other words is left to your logic. The standard response "UNABLE TO TRANSLATE—TRY AGAIN!" does nothing to help the player find the right ones.

I eventually got stuck halfway up the stairs, where a section had rolled away becoming apparently unpassable. A lengthy session spent trying to crawl died nowhere. Neither jumping nor swimming was possible and I got caught up in a sequence of "CAN'T GO THERE" and "UNABLE TO TRANSLATE." Unfortunately, the latter was also the response to my plea for help and I decided that either my powers of logic or the vocabulary was extremely limited.

Perhaps I was just not in tune with the words, which is a pity, for a game that had excited at the start, dis-appointed before I got very far.

Mystery of Munsie Manor is from Spectrum Software for the Commodore 64, priced $9.95.

THREE EPICS

Carle Frankenstein, The Quest for the Holy Grail and The Kingdom of Elia are three text adventures from Epic Software for the BBC micro.

The games all follow the same format. They start with Epic's "logo" — a flashy tune played to some clever graphics of the word "EPIC" shifting around the screen. This I found to be the most interesting and enjoyable feature of each cassette.

The instructions load after the logo and are well presented and comprehensive. In each case some key commands are left on the screen while the main program loads.

All games have a very fast response, with coloured scrolling text. Too many blank lines have been inserted for comfort, for all too soon previous parts of the conversation disappear.

The vocabulary is different from most Adventures, in that to enter a building the command is "go in". It took me quite a while to note this one, which is quite extraordinary really, for it makes perfect sense. It's just that I have never come across the use of it in an Adventure before!

What detracts from the games is the lack of any "obvious exit" routes — the North, South, East and West keys. Without these, one tends to wander wildly along paths and round courtyards, bumping into all manner of obstacles in one's way. For example, a road is likely to change direction suddenly without any warning, when the player will come to a

"you can't go there" obstruction and has to type away until a route is found.

What of each game? Probably Kingdom of Elia is the best of the bunch, although that isn't really saying too much. A palace courtyard seems logical if you are trying to wrap it — although it seems all right as you play. From east end, type S and you get to the south end, type W and you get to the west end, or N and you get to the north end.

In Elia, you must get the magic Elia bottle by defying the witch's curse, solve some riddles and return the bottle. There seemed to be a minimum number of problems and a lot of bumping into things during the journey to the mountain. Not a mind-bender by any means and, I decided, it held no real interest for me, lacking in any charm or humour as compensation.

Carle Frankenstein starts off at an inn — yet another where I was unable to get a pint! The monster Frankenstein is thought to be on the loose again, committing murders, and you must find and kill him. "Expunge the graveyard and Carle ruins, with its

GHOST TOWN

Scott Adams sends you on the Wild West trail in Ghost Town, soon to be available for the BBC, Commodore and Spectrum computers, in addition to the current range.

So here is an appetiser for those who have not yet enjoyed or cursed its creator!

"I'm in a ghost town. Visible items: jail, barbershop. Tell me what to do!"

Thus the opening display greets you. No help on this one, partner, you're on Scott's Adventure all alone.

The object of the game is to find the 13 treasures hidden in various locations and there are plenty of places to explore. Don't take too long, however, because the sun's going down and you need to find somewhere warm to spend the night. Fail and you won't live to see another day.

As may be expected in any good cowboy town, even if it is populated entirely by ghosts, plenty of action takes place in the saloon. Glorious comeings and goings occur at different times as the game progresses — that's if you hang around long enough to see.

Other places of interest are a jail you have to break IN to and a visit to "Boat Hill". Beware though, that you don't become one of its more recent occupants.

The stables are another place worthy of note, with lots to offer the prospective treasure hunter in pursuit of his riches. Of course, you can end up in a smelly pile of manure, should you be on the wrong end of an argument with a horse. Such humiliation is not, however, without its own rewards. As for the house, get him moving and you'll ride to pasture now.

What else is needed? Some knowledge of basic chemistry, a touch of horse sense, and hope that your hands don't blatter too easily — there's lots of digging to be done! Also, make sure you're in prime physical condition, (you need to jump around a lot) and use all five senses.

Probably the most intricate of Scott's original 13 Adventures, Ghost Town, just sits there and challenges you to solve it. You'll end up dead in a number of ingenious ways, but don't lose heart — all the information needed is there for you to come out a winner.

Certainly this is one Adventure you won't put down. Now, how do I open this tale ...?

Ghost Town is from Adventure International and is available for a variety of micros, some with graphics version.

secret passages, sulphur pits etc." says the instruction. Needs like a tourist guide, doesn't it? Trouble was, have paraffin lamp — no paraffin.

This is a particularly infuriating game, as I can only assume the lamp was empty.

Quest for the Holy Grail follows the same treasure format — find the Holy Grail and return it to Camelot. I won't bore you with the details. All in all, this one did not inspire me one bit — I found the lot impossibly dull and awful.

ADVENTURE QUEST

Being the owner of an Atari with disc drive, I have tended to concentrate my Adventure playing on disc-based games. But the tape-based Adventures from Level 9 have been hitting the headlines recently, so I thought it time to try one myself.

In this Adventure, the player has to outwit the demon king, who is tucked away far behind many elaborate defences. Using either cunning and skill, or brute force, you must find a way through these to reach the Dark Tower. Then you must destroy, for it contains his source of power.

Once at the tower, gaining entry could be a big problem for, if you have missed one of the four keys on the way there, you may never get in. Once inside, steering alive long enough to kill the demon king will involve you in a dangerous game of hide and seek with demons and some very nasty guards. Being in the right place at the right time will eventually let you (you, the player) triumph over evil.

To say that this is a big Adventure would be an understatement, for there are over 200 locations and some of the most elaborate problems to overcome that I have ever encountered.

Adventure Quest more than lived up to my expectations for a tape game. The text descriptions were long and made both compelling and exciting reading — the like of which I had only before seen on disc Adventures. The response time was good and the vocabulary understood by the program left little to be desired.

Level 9 Adventures are supplied with an envelope and card sending the player to one tape disc. But level 9 have now gone one better and supply very comprehensive hint sheets for all their Adventures too, if you send a stamped addressed envelope.

Although available for a wide range of micro (see below), Atari fans in particular should be overjoyed at the price — £5.50 compared with the usual £20 price tag on most Atari software.

Adventure Quest is from Level 9 Computing, priced £15.00, for the following machines: BBC B16, Commodore 64, Spectrum 48k, Lynx 48k, Macrom 32k, Citi 64k and Atari 512k.

TEN LITTLE INDIANS

When Major Johnstone-Smith died, he bequeathed all his fortune to be converted to gold and fashioned into a Squire to be hidden away somewhere in the grounds of his estate. He did not want his fortune to be inherited — it was his wish that it should be earned.

REVIEWS

He therefore commissioned ten similar Squires to be made, worthless until all brought together, when they would divulge the whereabouts of the golden Squire. These were well hidden by the Major before his death, using military knowledge and tactics. It is reported that, of those who have sought the Squires, only a handful have returned.

So it is that you find yourself joining in the search in Ten Little Indians, one of the Mysterious Adventures. I found it to have an interesting plot and, although not too difficult, it has many a concealed snare to deny the unwary Adventurer. In one or two locations, just pausing to consider my next move turned out to be a fatal mistake. This gave the game that little extra urgency, stimulating excitement and interest to the extent that, once started, I just had to fight through to a successful end.

That is not to say the game is too easy — judging by the latest batch of Hotline letters, many readers are finding problems! The main difficulty seems to be — ah, that would be telling! My advice is to keep things simple and not try to be so tidy if you are to be successful!

The Atari version, which I played, unfortunately does not have graphics, as do the Spectrum, Commodore and Dragon versions. However, I did like the split screen and use of coloured text which was easy on the eye.

Ten Little Indians is from Digital Fantasy for the BBC B16 and Spectrum 16k versions, and from Channel 4 Software for Atari, Dragon and Commodore versions, all at £14.95.

THE QUEST

The Quest is an Adventure from Commodore for the 64 and is supplied on a disc along with two other games plus a back-up utility program, under the collective title of The 64 Memory Games Program. The package is often supplied free when a disc drive is purchased.

The back-up utility, I discovered, was just about the slowest back-up on earth, requiring about 45 minutes (with operator intervention throughout) to copy a complete disc. I tried it out on the Commodore disc itself and found none of the games would run from the backup copy!

So much for taking precautions against Commodore disc failure! I loaded The Quest from the main disc with a feeling of foreboding!

The leader that comes with the disc includes a meagreable guide to playing The Quest and explains that it has a vocabulary of 81 words, but accepts others in certain situations. In fact, this is an understatement, since there is a CHOOSE command which lists 81 words, all of which are verbs and directions. As there are plenty of objects and scenery in the game, the overall vocabulary is much bigger.

When played, the game gives a similar feeling to the Colossal Cave, although the plot is entirely different. The setting is, nevertheless, in a network of underground caves and the objective is to find the Master and return him to his source of power.

Although it is supplied on disc, it is not strictly necessary, for I discovered that it does not access the disc during play.

In exploring the caves, one must traverse a variety of passages and crystal chambers etc. — all the usual happenings. Stone and iron staircases abound and from the centre of it all spreads out as orange glow.

Various mystery objects are encountered that appear to require magic to move and there are some nice puzzles for the mind to grapple with. A lot of exploration will have to be done to discover the various facilities available for solving the puzzles.

This is a text-only Adventure, with a fast response and, according to the instructions, it has 120 rooms and 51 objects. I never like to know how many there are — it adds a dimension of response to find out for yourself!

Quite a good Adventure for the beginner and one that will probably be played by more experienced players too. To explore and map the game will take quite some time. Although it is supplied on disc, that is not strictly necessary, for it does not access the disc during play.

The Quest is from Commodore for the Commodore 64.

WHICH MICRO-SOFTWARE REVIEW

'Stranded' by English Software. The challenge that's light years ahead.

Special Agent Sid's First Graphic Adventure

Imagine you're Special Agent Sid of the SAS. The year is 2010 AD and you're marooned on a strange planet.

Getting home is the challenge to you from English Software! And 'STRANDED' is the name of the game.

It's Sid's aim to find his starship and return home safely. But not before he's encountered and defeated all the hazards of this lonely, unknown planet. And with over 35 graphic screens, that's quite a tall order.

It could be a long mission - but we know you'll want to test your skills against everything that 'STRANDED' can throw at you.

Written in machine code, game progress can be saved to cassette or disk.

TITANIC

The Adventure begins. As it says the cassette play. In fact, Titanic for the 486 Spectrum is not really an Adventure, but a strategy game. I always thought that a strategy game remained an algorithm that allowed the player who had developed a sound strategy to win, give or take a bit of luck.

Basic tactics on a very hit and miss approach. To begin with, you must raise enough cash to finance an expedition to find the sunken wreck and find and recover gold that was on board.

This is quite fun, for there is a selection menu of 18 likely sources on finance and you must gamble, to a certain extent, on which will offer you the most. I found a publishing company that was being quite generous (should I have been EMUP???) as I had advantage of their offer of £140,000.

I then went shopping for some NASA planes of large objects in the search area, expert diving teams, repair kits for the ship and supplies.

The next part of the game involves shifting your ship around the sea by using direction keys and it jumps about 0.1 centimetres per time. If you have been wise enough to purchase a photo, about 17 pink spots mark the sea at the positions of large objects. On arrival at one of these, the chances are that you will have run straight into an iceberg. Even though you know there was something there, there was no means of detecting whether to plough on regardless, or approach with caution.

Should you be lucky enough to detect a wreck below you, you may then choose it or send down a diving team. Of course, it is quite likely to be an old wartime ship that explodes and takes your diving team with it.

If and when you eventually find the Titanic, then it must be explored (limited air supply) to find the gold. The Titanic has four floors which for some peculiar reason are arranged as a maze. All is not lost, though, for a map is available to view in some of the rooms. There are more hazards down there to avoid — well, you can't actually avoid them so much as just come upon them and hope that the random fire that awaits you is favourable.

To me, this made a change from Adventure. It could have made a good strategy game too, but the whole business not been so dependent on luck. As there is very little scope for planning your strategy, neither the description of strategy or Adventure would seem to apply.

Titanic is for the 486 Spectrum from B&B Software, priced £1.95.

PLANETFALL

Mr. what a large brightly coloured folder. Quite an Adventure in itself opening it and sifting through the contents. First there is a plastic ID card labelled "Sedlar Patrol" and bearing a picture of a bucket and scrubbing brush.

Odd that — still, we also have post-cards with pictures of strange planets and even stranger people on them, and envelope-type things containing instructions and pages from a diary they make very interesting reading and so eventually we get a large pile of paper sitting on the table.

Something seems to be missing. I try sifting through the pile and then giving the folder a shake. HELP! Where can it be? What I needed to do was EXAMINE FOLDER, for there, tucked carefully away in the back, was the most important part of the package — the Planetfall disc!

Having loaded the disc, the purpose of the scrubbing brush becomes clear, what with unobscured from strange planets leaving green slime all over the decks. It turns out I am a junior rating on board a star ship whose superior officer does a very good impression of a test-tube every time I try to leave my post.

What have I done to deserve it? Star Trek was never like this! Things soon take a turn for the better (or worse, depending upon how you look at it) for I have to make a dash-dodging escape from the stellar patrol ship, Feinstein, using one of its many escape pods.

I then found myself on a totally alien world, my only belongings being what I was wearing at the time Feinstein met its untimely end, plus a scrubbing brush, a survival kit and a towel with the words DON'T PANIC on it. As if I would!

As luck, or infomac would have it, I had come down right next to a large alien complex. After exploring and enjoying the local scenery, it soon became clear that this planet was in a good deal of trouble and it was down to me to put it right. As it was an alien planet, all the signs and other reading matter were in an alien language. This proved a real torment to translate.

You are not quite alone, for help is at hand in the shape of R-197, known to his friends as Floyd. Floyd is a robot and, as robots go, he is a little strange. Floyd refuses to grow up and act like an adult robot — he prefers playing hide-and-seek and writing on walls to doing any actual work. Mind you, he has a vital part to play, for you will not complete this Adventure without him. In fact, I dare say you would end up alone dead!

I found Planetfall to be a very humorous science fiction Adventure and a refreshing change from the usual. To play it, you'll need a good sense of humour and not a little patience, to put up with Floyd's mischievous behaviour — he can be a real pain at times. If you have these qualities, then you and Planetfall should get along just fine.

Planetfall is from Infomac for Atari 520, Apple II IIx, IBM PC 486, Commodore 64, TRS-80 Model I and II IIx, TI professional and PDP-11. Price is dependent upon version.

TEMPLE OF YUAN

This is the second game in the Mountains of Kat trilogy and starts off on the far side of the mountain. To reach that point was that you played it your objective in Kat Mountain. It is not necessary to have played Mountains of Kat to be able to enjoy Yuan.

Your aim here is to reach and enter the temple and put an end to its evil occupants. You start off endowed with the three items you were carrying as you reached the far side of the mountain in the previous game.

One of the hazards to be encountered is a right nest of nasty warts — creatures who are in the habit of throwing acid at you without warning. As in Mountains of Kat there is a combat mode, though this time the rules have been slightly altered.

Some of the things you may come across are an elephant, a huge pile of washing up, a kitten and a mouse. A small point of confusion arose when I tried feeding the elephant. Unless I was carrying a certain object, the reply came back WITH WHAT? and this was followed by WHAT NOW! It became apparent, when I had the right object, that the game assumed I meant to feed the elephant with the right thing and allowed me to, proving that WITH WHAT? was not really a question to the player, but a comment.

Trying to be kind to the little pig, I tried to feed it whilst carrying the mouse, only to be rebuffed. King was one of those two out of every two cats who didn't prefer Wiskas — this one's advice is Go Cat!

Yuan follows the same format as Kat, being a text only Adventure (if you exclude the mini-pictures of some of the objects). The problems did not seem too difficult.

Although I welcome a game that allows me to EXAMINE something, a feature I did not like was the fact that I was expected to be carrying it then. That limited the use of EXAMINE to portable objects — it is somewhat difficult to carry an elephant or a hole in a wall.

Temple of Yuan is from Incentive Software for the Amiga Spectrum, priced £15.95.

RING OF POWER

The setting of Ring of Power is a distant kingdom, where the king has died. His crown jewels have gone missing and whoever recovers them (you perhaps?) will be proclaimed the new King.

Ring of Power has a poor vocabulary, vague and meaningless descriptions and one of the slowest response times I have ever come across. My advice is don't rush out and buy this game.

Quixotica describes this game as a sophisticated Adventure which may be played with text or full colour graphics. No no! The only graphics included are some murky sprites at the edge of the screen, used to display the objects currently in the location.

Ring of Power is for the Commodore 64, from Quixotica, priced £9.95.

KLARTZ AND THE DARK FORCES

Wow! What a title! The object of this game is to destroy the evil Klartz who travels through time and space corrupting the very fabric of the universe. To achieve this, you must assemble the relics of his victims under the power of light. In theory, this should radiate enough power to destroy Klartz.

To find the relics, you must travel through five different time zones in your time capsule. The zones are early solar, mid-solar, late solar, far space and outer galaxy.

Each zone has a topical problem. For example, in the Roman time zone you must get past a Roman guard. The problems that confront you get harder as the game progresses.

Unfortunately, the game is not as inspiring as its title or the description might suggest. It would have been a lot easier if it had been written with the user in mind. After all, who knows what they have done wrong if the computer replies ILLEGAL INPUT, PLEASE RECOMPUTE?

The HELP command is of no help either. The only message I could get was MESSAGE SELECTED BY THE ORDER OF KLARTZ. Well, I don't know about you, but I feel that in Adventures you are meant to battle against the puzzles and not the author's apathy towards the player. For me, the game was ruined by its selfishness.

The lack of help when you make a mistake is very annoying and, in my opinion, Mike Munnick, the author, should have replaced the PLEASE RECOMPUTE message with I DO NOT UNDERSTAND (VERY/NOISE). In the absence of this, my only option was to try different verbs and nouns until the computer knew what I was talking about.

Klartz is quite large, but I could not travel through all its realms for the reason that either the game was too difficult for me, or its logic too strange. I favour the latter (as then I'm biased). To be fair, the game would have been worth trying if it wasn't for these minor things.

There are three versions: a cut down Dragon 32/64 version, a 486 Spectrum version and one with expanded graphics for the Commodore 64 which runs in 128k in two parts! I played the Dragon version.

There is a prize for the first person to complete the game on Dragon and Commodore — a disc drive for their respective computers. If the mention of a prize has whetted your appetite, here is a tip from the author: "... You have to explore the different zones in time and space to recover the relics of lost civilisations. You need a good knowledge of the supernatural to complete the last part of the game!"

A HANDFUL OF BOOKS

As a change from slaving away over a hot keyboard, I sat down and relaxed for a while with a batch of recently released books on Adventure.

Graphics Adventures for the Spectrum (SIS) by Richard G. Hurley and contains listings for seven graphics Adventures. They are reproduced (presumably from printer output) in greater clarity than I have seen before in print.

Having said that, there is no point in buying the book unless you intend to sit down and type — or should I say "rubber pad?" — at least one of the listings in to your Spectrum, looking through them, it is not a job I would fancy, since some have over two pages of numeric data. Make an error and...

Each game is preceded by hints on typing in the listings, saving the game — some non-routine saving methods are used — plus tips and instructions on how to play.

The book says that to help you write your own Adventures, the techniques used in writing the programs are explained. This is true, but only as brief preambles, so you should not expect to learn how to write such programs from scratch.

If Graphic Adventures are your thing, and you are adept at entering listings, then this book could represent very good value for money, although I can't vouch for the quality of the games, as I have not boyed them in myself.

Graphics Adventures for the Spectrum (SIS) by Richard G. Hurley and published by Micropress at $9.95.

Beyond the Arcade must be a title to appeal to Adventure fans, who can readily be asked on to have an interest in most games requiring thought and strategy, as opposed to fast reactions and manual dexterity.

By Nicholas Palmer, the book starts off with a useful discussion of the characteristics of most current popular minis from the gamer's point of view. This takes into account the software available, graphics capability and so on. If you are about to buy a computer, and mistakenly admit that it's mainly for gaming, then here's a useful comparison.

The book then takes the reader through the whole range of strategy games, from Adventures, through war and resource games, to play by mail games. In fact, almost half the book is devoted to the latter and it's the most complete rundown on the subject I have come across.

Pure Adventures, though, should prove it before buying, as not an awful lot of it is about Adventure games.

Beyond the Arcade by Nicholas Palmer, is from Mervar Publishing, priced $9.95.

Finally, I came to The Adventurer's Notebook by Mike Gernard. This is presented with a metal ring spine and is intended to be a working notebook for the Adventurer.

The main bulk of it consists of sheets of dummy maps and blank tables for writing in objects, locations and actions, for use as an aide-memoire during play. It's an excellent idea, but what happens when the pages run out? The idea might have been better presented as a proper loose-leaf folder, with replacement forms readily available, rather than as a book.

Some 36 pages of text precede the notebook sections and comprise the history of Adventure, hints on playing and a list of currently available software. There is even a sort of abridged resources included and a chapter on Recommended Adventures.

Interestingly, Artic's series is included in this list, contrasting with the views of Nicholas Palmer (see Beyond the Arcade above) who finds Planet of Death "amazingly dense" and the others little better. Yes.

The text part of the book continues with recommended books and I was pleased to see The Computer & Video Games Book of Adventure being the only one named as non-machine-specific.

Obviously C&VG is not thought by the author to be worthy of true Adventures, while PCG (7) at And who's the Bridge follow the reaction? Only asking, Tony!

The Adventurer's Notebook is by Mike Gernard and is published by Darkworks, priced $3.95.

A SMALLER PYRAMID

Sitting on the software shelves was an Adventure for the Commodore 64 that I had overlooked for some time, so I took it down, dusted it off and found it was called Pyramid. Having previously ventured into a number of pyramids, I felt it was time to renew my acquaintance with Egyptology.

Starting off from "In archeologists' land", (and my spelling where a sign told me to stop treasure, I moved north, "I am in path", I was told. Moving east, I find "I am in desert". I took some business and an necklace, but had to type INV to check I really

PLAYING BLIND

Have you ever used one of those computerized cash dispensers, set into the wall of your local bank? You know, the things that take so long to digest the information on your card, you get the idea the controlling software is written in Basic?

The other Sunday evening, being short of a few readers, I popped in to the town, only to find a rather perplexed gentleman quietly scratching his head gazing at a screen with some weird and at a screen with some weird and a wonderful pattern on it. "Ah! A wonderful pattern!" I thought. "It's gone funny," remarked the bewildered gentleman.

I boldly inserted my plastic card. Nothing happened to the screen so, after waiting for an imaginary FOR/NEXT loop, I keyed in my secret number. Head scratches was growing in order pages of a lost card. "What next?" I thought, and then proceeded to print a sequence of command letters, the screen showing an error pattern in green throughout.

By now, my collection was getting quite excited at the prospect of me being penning and customer and had that "old you will" look on his face.

"Get some the card, can come the cash, followed by a receipt. The paper he did slowly down over the patterned screen.

The head scratching started up again, quite violently, and my companion walked away, bewildered. I smiled to myself. He couldn't have been an Adventurer, nor guessed that I had once played right through Adventureland without lighting the lamp — just for heck!

COUNT YOURSELF LUCKY!

Remember the Rev. Dave Byrne, one of the readers who started off the great Fun Arcade Mystery? Remember Steven Donaghy of Ghost Town fame? By coincidence, they have finally got around to getting stuck in The Count — both at the same time! Dave keeps finding Dave out and Steve keeps losing his test state. Why do should worry about going camping whilst playing The Count beats me!

The Count is perhaps unique amongst Adventure titles in that the timing is so critical that it is almost like playing in real time. Even when the problems have been solved, it still takes a lot of planning and strategy to put it all together in the right sequence at the right time. In this respect, it is one of the most infuriating Adventure of all.

Steve has recently been out of practice after a spell in the States, where he nearly got jailed. He did eventually complete Ghost Town, so no doubt he was wise enough to struggle in a home shoe to aid his escape. In our Adventure Review Extra this month, Steven relates his harrowing experiences at the hands of Ghost Town.

ONE TO BLOW YOUR BRAINS OUT!

I am always perturbed when I get a letter about a game such as Minor of Madness, a title I could not name. All became clear when I received a review copy of the game from Ireland. Kory Walsh, of Celtic Software, explained that the game had been on trial on the Irish market and was about to be introduced on an unsuspecting British public.

Minor of Madness runs on a Spectrum and is a team Adventure in which the player, Leonard Armstrong, must discover the whereabouts of a top secret file of Soviet spies on Manhattan Island.

Having traced the list to the author of a French psychological Dr. Iwan Fort, housed in an old Yorkshire manor, you have been trapped on the head by an enigmatic locale and wake up in a strange green bedroom.

I dealt with a somewhat hazardous overflow and occupied my room. Then I came upon a rusty building main — save game here in my best tip! After being forced to play his little game of Russian Roulette a few times, I decided it was wiser to be content, to be played by masochists!

One of the things I loved was the ability to look at and examine things — a feature all too often missing in Adventure. I also loved its instant response, its clear yellow on black text and its gentle humour.

Being an Irish game, it amused me to observe, upon closer examination, that a loose Scoreboard was severely fixed with rusty nails. Or was I imagining things? I couldn't get the message to display a second time. Had I forgotten the wording of my command, or was there a leprechaun in there smiling at me?

Only one thing annoyed me. I badly needed to recall my location details and couldn't — until I discovered that the R key did just that. I had a non-production copy in a plain wrapper, however, and no instructions to go on.

Minor of Madness is from Celtic Software for the 486 Spectrum priced $5.95. If it isn't in the shops where you read this, you can get a copy direct from Celtic, at 17 Willow Park Avenue, Glenavon North, Dublin 11, Eire.

had them, as the computer responded with a blank.

North and south from "in desert" led to "in desert", and east again led back to the "in path" to the west. The same pattern was repeated "in desert" west of "in path". If that sounds complicated, believe me, it isn't. It's just 15 locations (the same total in this game — did you ever?) suggesting as thousands.

Heating a shovel, I dug and felt straight through the path to a cavern, where a minor puzzle got me into a further network of caves. My way was barred by a mummy which I shot whereupon it became "very mad when". I tried putting the mummy out of its misery, by taking another two shots at it, and got "very mad very mad very mad when".

The instructions state that "This Adventure is more sophisticated than most..." Obvious exits are shown, but the words "Obvious exits" are displayed even when there aren't any. The game is text only in playing while as blue (the default CGM-64 screen colours for you non-CGM-owners). Yeah — really sophisticated — match our Level 9 and Inform!

Pyramid certainly has some sophisticated spelling, using innovative versions of well known words that don't get a mention in my dictionary. Is a "cellar" an underground room as a salt container? It's all "so" much for me — I'll say no more!

Pyramid, one of Mordis's "toughest adventures" (there are more!), is for the Commodore 64 and VIC 20. For some reason, it is also available for the C64 and T199/1A.

LIVE AT OLYMPIA II!

Daniel Goss writes from the Chinese University of Hong Kong to my CMG doesn't reach his local bookshop until about six weeks after its publication date over here.

Yet I can assure you that the waiting is worthwhile — your work is really great. I think your feature must rely on a lot of support from other Adventurers, so why not build a database of clues?

Thanks for these encouraging words Daniel. And — great minds think alike! — I already have a clues database, which I often use direct to a printer to read out tips to agonised Adventurers.

You will be able to read more about this in the forthcoming CMG Yearbook. Better still, readers within reach of London will soon have a chance to see it in action. Adventure Magazine will be performing live at the PCW Show at Olympia in September. Paul Coppins, Simon Marsh and myself will all be on hand at a special stand, where we will be happy to answer — we hope! — your problems and to talk Adventure with you. You might even catch a glimpse of such famous personalities as Ray Hunter Sub, David Sage, Amanda Queen Clare, The Mysterious Mammal and (shhh!) The Editor Himself.

All of which makes Computer & Video Games the best read around for micro-Adventurers!

ADVENTURE CHAT

Beverly Sandle asked for a tee-shirt for being rather clever in Kingdom of the Mad recently. I was mean and said "No!" Well, she's come up trumps with Countess to Dream, so I am relenting and sending her a tee-shirt after all. Her tips are shown in the inside dress section. Thanks, Bev!

McKenzie is the name of an Advocate staff appearing in the Hopkins mail. Grand Wizard of York can't get past the first issue, nor get the game to understand anything he types. John Southern, of Hyde in Cheshire, is having similar problems with the first issue. By the sound of it, I'm glad I have not had a review copy. Come to think of it, perhaps that's WHY I have not had a review copy!

Jonathan Day of Newport has come up with some real pointers. Where can he get a PDF-11 copy of Decor Dungeon (link) and how much would it cost? Even more tricky, does anyone know of a program of Decor that would allow Apple software to run on a BBC, or a BBC² connected to a BBC¹.

Jan. Fraser is glowing over in Alderhot. "Have you solved Colonel? Adventure? Have you finished the endgame and got the full 1180 points? Load Heston!"

"Can you get the needle out of the haystack in Gunpowder I did once and I've never been able to do it again! Level 8 say in your Angan journal that you can solve Colonel in four weeks. Is that the time it should take in man-hours, or over a period in spare time, morning and evening?" Well, Ian, this is our September journal and I just can't help you!

PROBLEMS IN BRIEF

Can anyone tell F. Maguire of Tinworth if he can do anything else in a strange house other than pick up junk and boards?

Who can help Christopher Hill pass that troll who guards the toll bridge in Spenser? What is it that he wants, asks Chris.

John Jones of Birmingham wonders if there was a bug in his copy of Pharaoh's Tomb. He has tried, unsuccessfully, to cross the most bridges. Is there a secret?

We've heard how to use the long key to open the Queen castle door, but Philip Mary of Bristol can't even find it!

Mean is Philosopher's Cheff! Mark Williams of Petersfield won't just settle for cheese! Where is the meat, he asks.

Greedy Quick players are trying to work out the logic of the map. Even readers who have completed the game can't figure it out, so I guess it can't be all that important! Can anyone explain it -- is there any logic to it?

The Compendium #4 has the best sound handling of any source around at the moment. The sound of the system is in the FM ship which even has a sound handling device. The source is a good sound from the wireless speaker which produces a nice sound quality that having a small built-in speaker can be used in the Compendium for example.

1. Chlorophyll a (Chl a) is the primary photosynthetic pigment in most plants and algae. It is a green pigment that absorbs light energy in the blue and red regions of the visible spectrum. Chl a is essential for the light-dependent reactions of photosynthesis, where it converts light energy into chemical energy in the form of ATP and NADPH. The structure of Chl a consists of a central magnesium atom coordinated by four nitrogen atoms in a porphyrin-like ring, with a long phytol side chain attached to one of the ring carbons.

Welcome back. I've had quite a few calls recently about GOTO statements in our listings. It seems that occasionally there will be a statement such as GOTO 1027 but there isn't actually a line 1027 in the listing.

This happens because of our constant efforts to save space. If a program has a plain ROM line, then we usually remove it. This is OK, as long as there is no line which tries to GOTO the place where we took out the ROM.

If you find that one of our listings suffers from this problem, then you should be able to cure it by changing the line number after the GOTO so that it points to the next line which actually exists.

For example, suppose the lines of the program are numbered 1000, 1010, 1020 and so on. If you see a line which says GOTO 1012, then change it to GOTO 1020 which is the next line after 1010 which actually exists.

All should now be well. If not, then give me a ring on the new Bug Hunter number. It's 01-251 6222.

FOUR GATES

Here's a tip from Jamie Sapper at Halifax. It's for Phoenix's game for the Vic called Four Gates to Freedom.

If you move sideways into a purple bomb, he says, then you disappear. You can still fire but you can't be destroyed.

In the Adventure part, try typing MAP. This may give you some much-needed help.

ALL THE CODES

For those of you who, like me, still get confused with all those methods of cheating on Software 'Footie' games, here are the codes for the last time. Magic Miner (Bug Byte): 6001268. Magic Miner (soft prod.): TYPEWRITER (at the Wily (Soft Prod.) TYPEWRITER (the all that) Good.

WRONG MACHINE

We described Martian Invasion in July's Book of Games as running on a Vic. It does, in fact, only run on a Commodore 64. Sorry about that. We'll try to get a similar Vic program written for a future issue.

WRONG ADDRESS

We printed the wrong starting address for the Olympics listing in July's issue. The bug is easily cured by changing all references in the text from 27000 to 20000. You'll also need to change the RANDOMISE ROM command as well.

DODGE WHAT?

We did it again in July's Book of Games. Printed black text on a black background! If you're still trying to decipher the first page of Dodge City for the BBC, then send me a stamped addressed envelope and I'll get a readable listing in the post.

TANDY SECRETS

Noting that Tandy owners have been neglected in Bug Hunter for the last few months, M. A. Rodden decided to send me his best kept secret about the machine.

Wouldn't it be useful to be able to enter a program after typing MCW? Well, here's how. Type POKE 17130,1 and press ENTER. Then type SYSTEM (enter) and then /10000 (enter). Now type LIST and you have your program back. Good, eh?

If I had to save the program and then reset the machine before trying to add the program or even running it.

Which Disk Drive?

'Which disk drive should I choose for my BBC?..

'Should I have a single or dual unit?..

'Can I up-grade a single unit to a dual drive?..

All these questions and more are now answered by the Microstyle OPTION drive. A system of disk drives designed to be flexible, cost conscious and practical. If you're after a single drive choose 'OPTION 1'. However, if you feel that a dual system is really the answer, but might be too costly at present choose 'OPTION 2' now and add the second drive later. 'OPTION 3' is easily installed within 'OPTION 2's' dual case at any time. As for 'OPTION 4'... well, what can we say? A superb, high-performance dual disk system designed to expand the horizons of your BBC and to introduce you to a whole new world of computing.

OPTION 1

Single drive

100% 5 1/4" Single Simult disk drive. Uses BBC power supply. Includes 'Utilities disk', all leads and manuals.

£185 inc VAT

OPTION 2

Single drive in dual case

100% 5 1/4" Single Simult disk drive. In dual case. Complete package includes 'Utilities disk', all leads and manuals. Own internal power supply.

£245 inc VAT

Specifications

Running Current (typ) 200mA
to 350mA
Max height, single sided, 40 inch
Unformatted capacity 100KB
Data transfer rate 100KB/sec
Track density 40 ips
Number of tracks 40
Number of heads 1
Power on to ready 1 sec
Track to track access 0.005 sec
Rotational speed 500rpm
Dimensions 4 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 7 1/2 in Direct drive spindle motor Electromechanical head positioning
Head load by spring door
Conventional door (see M050)
Note: Other computers with 5Vdc (5) 50A etc.

OPTION 3

Single drive to fit OPTION 2

Additional single Simult disk drive. 100% for to OPTION 2 into 200% dual. (To ensure best possible results we recommend that this mod. is carried out by our own engineers.)

MARATHON MOUSE

You would think that running around a laboratory maze all day in search of the best cheese the British taxpayer can afford would keep a mouse pretty fit and healthy.

But for Herbert all was not well — what is the use of four physically perfect legs when all the brain has to do is tell them to "follow that nose"?

Which was why his keeper found him curled up in the corner one day obviously suffering from the blues.

To give the little fellow something to occupy his grey cells, he has constructed this maze in which Herbert knows where the cheese is but must take a different route to reach it each time.

Herbert can go RIGHT, UP or DIAGONALLY RIGHT, as his instinct only tells him travel towards the corner where the cheese is. He now scampers about quite happily, searching for a route which is not identical to any he has taken before.

But he also has a problem too big for his tiny brain to fathom — just how many different ways are there to get from the bottom left corner to the top right?

You can try finding each route and counting them all, but there is a much simpler way of working it out — and maybe letting your mouse count the numbers.

When you have found the answer, send it in on a postcard, together with your name and address, and you could be one of 16 people lucky enough to win an exclusive Computer & Video Games tee-shirt!

IN AND OUT

Can you give a rational explanation to the little story depicted in this set of pictures? If so, send it in on a CAVIO. The best explanation will win some software for your micro. Don't forget to tell us what it is!

FOUR IS NO SQUARE

"It is perfectly simple," said Fred. "At least, it is supposed to be. I have made eight Z shapes of four squares each and one T shape, also of four squares."

"So what's the problem?"

"I've been trying for hours but no matter how I fit the pieces onto the board, I cannot cover it completely."

Can you convince Fred, with a simple logical observation, that he is wasting his time on an impossible task?

If you can't — make the board and pieces and try it!

Ada has given her husband, Fred, something of a problem. As secretary to the local WI, she frequently has letters and postcards to be delivered.

Since Fred, despite living in a flat which is right over a pub, likes to spend his evening strolling from pub to pub and meeting his friends over the odd pint, she decided that he can deliver her letters to the ladies of the committee.

It is just Fred's bad luck that exactly one delivery has to be made in each and every street. At least at the end of each road is another pub.

His problem is that he wants to find a way that will take him along each road just once.

Having delivered the letter for that road as he passes, he continues along in the same direction to the pub on the next corner — in his condition to attempt to make a U-turn would be disastrous and lead to him being found measuring his length along the kerb.

HER problem is that this idea of him has led to her husband drinking so much that, after delivering the final letter and continuing along the road to the last pub, he is quite incapable of finding his way home at closing time.

She must get the wheedlawyer out!

and search for him.

So can you solve two problems for the unhappy pair?

a) Find a route for Fred which will let him deliver all the letters but not go down a road more than once and
b) Tell Ada which pub Fred will be lying outside, no matter where he wanders during the evening?

A MINER PROBLEM

That top selling mine game has prompted this little puzzle — using only the letters M, A, N, I, C, can you complete this square so that each line ACROSS, DOWN and the two main DIAGONALS contain these five letters just once?

The solution to Four to No Square and A Miner Problem will appear in October's issue of C&PD. Don't miss it!

WE PRESENT — THE THOMPSON TWINS!

The next record release from pop superstars, the Thompson Twins, isn't a new single. It isn't a new LP or even a 12-inch mega-mix picture disc! The record we're talking about here is a limited edition, extremely exclusive Computer & Video Games/Thompson Twins Adventure game on a flexi-disc! The record will feature an Adventure for the Spectrum and Commodore 64 featuring the Thompson Twins and written by our friends Gulchessa, the Game Lords.

If you solve the puzzles posed by the Thompson Twins Adventure, you could win an amazing prize. Free tickets to one of the Twins' upcoming concerts, plus a chance to meet Tom, Alannah and Joe backstage afterwards! There will be tons of exciting goodies for the runners-up too. The Twins are at this moment recording a special message just for C&VG readers and the disc will also include a song from the Twins.

LET'S NAME NAMES!

And now we proudly present the winner of our Name Game contest! We asked you to come up with an original name for a brand new software house, we had hundreds of entries but the one we liked most came from David Bucknall of Hythe in Kent who wanted to call the new company "Kite". David's prize was a day out at the Anon Towers Leisure Park. Twenty runners-up will receive copies of Kite's first game. More details next issue!

Our amazing Thompson Twins flexi-Adventure makes Computer & Video Games really great value for money — even though we're having to increase the price of your favourite games magazine to 99p as from next month. Everyone here at C&VG is working twice as hard to make sure you get twice the value for that extra 10p — so you can be sure that Computer & Video Games will have all the best news, reviews and competitions in any computer games magazine.

Have you got what it takes to build your very own monster?

FRANK N. STEIN

BY COLIN STEWART

NEW
NOW

Balled of Frank N. Stein

Frank picks up a head.
A short, stout arm and legs.
He takes them to his tower and adds a shot of power.

Frank must now be located.
Just look what he's created!
A monster big and mad.
The outcome must be bad.

Frank's monster's plastic rough.
Through all kinds of stuff
If Frank can't match the bundle he won't be worth a smudge.

Please! That's got the power off, but Frank's out of his head!
He's found another head, and he's going for it again!

Copyright © D. McCafferty
(Poet)

THE SETTING: Professor F.N. Stein's laboratory in his Castle in the Black Forest.

THE TIME: 1890s

THE GAME: 50 screens requiring timing, logic and planning to complete.

THE OPPOSITION: Too many to list here but featuring: Snails, bats, ice (it makes you slip), women's poles, man eating pumpkins, spiders, slime (it slows you down), ectoparasites, tarps, springs, light bulbs (they electrify you), mice, labsters, snakes, humble bees, jack-in-the-box etc.

THE OBJECT: As you know, all the best monsters are hand built. Poor Stein's life long ambition has always been to build his own monster - but first he needs all the bits!

You guide him around the dangers picking up the bones - make sure you get the right order - then activate him by throwing the switch - the longer you take to complete each screen the higher will be the change you give him - and the angrier he will become - so watch out!
